Circleville To Douse Lights Soon—Merchants Called To Instruction Session

Pickaway county's first blackout will come within six weeks, and all communities of the county, including Circleville, will hold test blackouts before the county date. This fact was announced Monday night at the regular meeting of the Defense Council. An all-state blackout will be held sometime in January.

Circleville business men have been called to attend an instruction meeting Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the basement of the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. At that time all will be advised as to procedure.

Responsibility for blackout rests entirely with building occupants. This regulation affects both business houses and residences.

All lights in the city must be extinguished three minutes after the alarm, which will be a series of short blasts on the Container Corporation steam siren. This means that lights must not be left burning in stores, offices or homes unless the buildings are occupied.

Penalties Provided

Severe penalties are provided for violation of the regulations, fines up to $500, or three months jail imprisonment or both being provided by statute.

Every merchant who has lights burning in his establishment at night is urged to attend the instruction meeting Friday night, for in the blackout regulation as with others ignorance of the law is no excuse in court. The instruction meeting will be in charge of Charles Gilmore, of the Defense Council.

It is likely that for the first test blackout the night, but not the exact time, will be announced. Later tests will be without advance warning of any kind.

Demonstration Planned

At the Friday evening meeting merchants will be told the kind of illumination they may have in (Continued on Page Two)

ITALIANS TOLD NOT TO SHIVER OUT IN PUBLIC

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 — According to the office of war information the Italian civilians today have been warned by the Italian Fascist radio not to "tremble in public."

The warning, said the OWI, was contained in one of a series of broadcasts which have flooded the Italian shortwave band since the invasion of Africa by U. S. forces.

McNutt Recommended As Manpower Czar and Draft Service Director

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—Labor and management today recommended to President Roosevelt that Paul V. McNutt be made the nation's supreme manpower czar with control over Selective Service, and opposed immediate compulsory manpower legislation.

The War Manpower Commission chairman, a 14-man labor-management policy committee said, should be given "extended" and "centralized" authority in order to correct "major weaknesses" in the present manpower situation which threaten to "seriously impede the war effort."

At the same time, the group called on all women "without small children or other urgent household responsibilities" to prepare to enter war employment.

Report To President

The six industry representatives and eight AFL-CIO officials have been studying the manpower problem for five months. Major recommendations in their interim report, formally released today by the President, were:

1. Centralization of full authority for administration of manpower policies and programs in McNutt's War Manpower Commission.
2. Apportionment of manpower between military and civilian activities by a five-man committee composed of the chiefs of staff of the Army and Navy, WPB Chairman Donald Nelson, Lend-Lease Administrator Edward Stettinius and McNutt.
3. Transfer of Selective Service to the WMC.
4. Cessation of voluntary enlistments.

Centralized Hiring

5. Centralization of all hiring in the U. S. Employment Service, which is under McNutt's control.

6. Fill needs of the armed services for skilled men by special draft calls.

7. Determination of the size and rate of growth of the armed forces in order that detailed manpower policies can be formed.

Although recognizing the possibility that compulsory manpower legislation may be necessary in the months ahead, the committee expressed belief that "voluntary and cooperative" action on the part of the public, government, management and labor will meet the existing problem.

"The committee doubts that conversion of the moral obligation to serve in the war effort, into a legal obligation to serve, will of itself solve the manpower situation," the report said. "The problems of administering the manpower program must be solved and enactment of a law will not solve them."

Would Change Draft

The group proposed transfer of Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey's Selective Service system to McNutt's jurisdiction because of the increasing rate of draft inductions, and employment and the need for the most careful distribution of manpower so that each individual may be of maximum use.

"In making this recommendation, the committee is fully aware of the excellent job that is being done by the Selective Service system at all levels from the director to the 6,500 local boards," the report said. "However, it is in (Continued on Page Two)"

BEGGAR CHAMP PROVES RIGHT TO WORLD TITLE

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—William Beck, 69, a Broadway beggar was termed the "world's best panhandler" today by night court attaches.

Beck, arrested for begging, carried bankbooks showing $26,823.23 on deposit in four institutions in addition to possessing some $130 in cash. Taken to night court, Beck begged twenty-five cents from another prisoner in the bull pen and picked up a dime from a second prisoner who occupied the "paddy wagon" with him.

Fined $50, Beck paid on the spot with $1 bills.

AIRMEN BALK JAP PLAN FOR ALL-OUT DRIVE

Daring Tiny Torpedo Boats Slash At Enemy With Telling Effect

DESTROYER HARD HIT

Little Resistance Met As Troops Advance Under Naval Gun Protection

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—United States air forces and motor torpedo boats today forestalled any Japanese plans to launch an all-out attack on Guadalcanal as American ground units continued to advance East of Henderson air field.

With Marine and Navy fliers maintaining air superiority over the Solomons, the Japanese have been reluctant to move a large invasion fleet of warships and transports into the battle area. Small enemy fleet units, usually composed of only a few destroyers, have ventured into waters near Guadalcanal, but have been driven off by American planes and torpedo boats.

Troops Advance

Army troops are meeting little resistance as they push eastward under cover of fire from American warships. The Navy reported that the latest American advance took place near Tapona river, four miles East of Koli Point, where Japanese reinforcements have been landed.

The daring little torpedo boats have slashed out at Jap destroyers with telling force during the last few days. The Navy's latest communiqué reported that the torpedo boats attacked two enemy destroyers, prowling in waters North of the Florida Islands, and scored a hit on one of the Jap warships. The action raised to 81 the number of enemy ships sunk or damaged during the battle for the Solomons.

Jap Planes Destroyed

American aircraft destroyed three more float-type biplanes at Rekata bay to bring the Jap plane losses to 544 in the Solomons campaign. The raid on Rekata bay revealed that U. S. planes are continuing their attacks throughout the Solomons and are preventing enemy planes from giving effective support to ground operations.

Meanwhile, other Navy and Marine aircraft kept pace with the ground advance by blasting Jap ground installations and landing boats on the beaches West of American positions on Guadalcanal.

Bombers Effective

Reports from Australia showed that Gen. Douglas MacArthur's bombers also are playing a large part in preventing enemy reinforcements and supplies from reaching the Solomons. The land-based bombers blasted another Jap transport, apparently headed for the islands.

COURT ORDERS PICKPOCKET TO WEAR GLOVES

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 — A unique sentence was meted out to Daniel Mahoney, 51, today by General Sessions Judge Jonah J. Goldstein.

Mahoney, convicted as one of the slickest pickpockets in the business, was given the usual fifteen to thirty months in Sing Sing by Judge Goldstein who then directed:

"When you get out of prison I order you to wear gloves all the time. In the Summer wear cotton gloves and in the Winter woolen ones."

Detectives of the pickpocket squad said the court order would prevent Mahoney from dipping his sensitive fingers into pockets if it can be enforced.

Pétain and Captured Darlan

CHIEF of State Marshal Henri Pétain, left above, and Admiral Jean Darlan, right, chief of all Vichy French armed forces, declared they would resist the American invasion of France's North African colonies, but what resistance has been made is slowly crumbling. Admiral Darlan was captured when the Americans occupied Algiers, capital of Algeria, and now is being "entertained" by them.

Defeat Looms for Teen Age Training Delay

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—Senate and house conferees on the 18-19 year old draft bill convene again today with it considered virtually certain that the year's training amendment will be scrapped.

Indications were that the new draft measure will be finally passed by congress Thursday and sent to President Roosevelt so that drafting of the 'teen age youths may begin by mid-December.

Congressional leaders said that their plans were for the house to approve the conference report today. The senate has adjourned until Thursday when it is slated to take final action on the bill.

While the conferees reached no agreement in their first session yesterday, it was disclosed that house members are insistent that the army be given a bill for drafting 18-19 year olds without restrictions.

Mandate Issued

The house conferees received a direct mandate from the lower chamber to reject the training requirement, which was put into the senate bill by Sen. O'Daniel (D) Tex. By a vote of 178 to 40, the house rejected a motion by Rep. Rankin (D) Miss., calling for acceptance of the O'Daniel provision.

Rep. May (D) Mo., chairman of the house military affairs committee, declared that "we will force the senate to yield" on the issue.

"The senate provision is not workable," he added.

The O'Daniel amendment provides that young men subject to the draft under the new act could not be used for combat duty beyond the territorial boundaries of the continental United States until after they have had a year of training.

President Roosevelt, Secretary of War Stimson and other high officials of the war department have voiced vigorous opposition to the amendment, asserting that it would handicap the army in building up the nation's military forces.

Two other amendments attached to the bill in the senate also faced the conferees. They provided that no high school student eligible for the draft under the new measure could be inducted until he has completed his academic year, and that any person who is regularly employed in an agricultural occupation or endeavor shall not be drafted until a satisfactory replacement can be made.

As commander-in-chief he could have ordered the African campaign opened prematurely and probably have saved his party at the polls.

He acted in the big way.

Thought for the day: Thanks, Mr. President.

HERE'S TIP ON READING TIRE SERIAL NUMBERS

DAYTON, Nov. 10—Having trouble reading the serial number of your tires, which must be listed on your gasoline rationing application?

Take a tip from F. W. Sager, who says that sprinkling powder or flour over the numbers will make them easier to distinguish.

But even if that doesn't work, the OPA says it will be OK to list the trade name of your tires instead.

Guadalcanal 'Shaping Up,' Says Marine

American Force Numerically Superior, Holcombe Reports On Return To U. S.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—Returning from Guadalcanal, Lieut. Gen. Thomas Holcombe, commandant of the Marine Corps, said today that American land forces on the island are numerically superior to the Japanese and that "things are shaping up" which will stall the steady flow of Japanese reinforcements to that island.

Gen. Holcombe left the island on October 23, just before the Japanese launched their latest all-out attack to recapture Guadalcanal, but were turned back again by American Army, Navy and Marine Corps forces.

"I think things are shaping up and working out so there will be more interruption of these (Japanese) reinforcements," Holcombe told newspapermen during Secretary Knox' weekly press conference.

Holcombe said he found the Marine division on Guadalcanal in excellent shape and said he is now convinced that the American Marine as an individual "is superior to the Jap soldier in all respects." "We had feared otherwise for a while," Holcombe added.

Holcombe told reporters that while he was on Guadalcanal, American forces were subjected to their 79th air raid since they seized the southern Solomons from the Japanese early in August.

The general said that the night he arrived on the embattled island, the Japanese carried out their usual harassing night bombing by seaplanes.

Holcombe stated that Marines had named the leader of this enemy seaplane squadron "Louie The Louie," and added that he came over with six to eight planes nightly and each plane dropped eight 100-pound bombs.

The commandant said that these raids did not cause much damage but that they had a certain "nuisance value" to the enemy.

"They interrupted my dinner twice," the general stated.

PRIVATE RITES ARRANGED FOR EDNA M. OLIVER

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 10 — Private funeral services today were set for Thursday at Forest Lawn Memorial Park for Edna Mae Oliver, beloved by filmgoers for her portrayals of crusty dowagers, who died yesterday on her 59th birthday anniversary after a lengthy illness.

The veteran actress, a stage and screen favorite for four decades, was stricken with an intestinal ailment three months ago. Her condition took a turn for the worse last August and Miss Oliver was forced to cancel radio and screen engagements and enter the Cedars of Lebanon hospital.

She died without being aware of the gravity of her condition. She just peacefully went to sleep.

Miss Oliver's passing followed by only a few weeks that of her close friend and fellow artist, May Robson, who died October 21.

The actress began her motion picture career in 1923 after appearing in the Broadway production of "Showboat."

Only close living relative of the actress is an aunt, Mrs. Hattie Cox of Malden, Mass.

RARE FALL ELECTRICAL STORM STRIKES DISTRICT

A rare fall electrical and wind storm struck the Circleville district early Tuesday with rain totalling nearly one-half inch falling. Sewers in some parts of the city were flooded when the down-pour proved too heavy for the storm sewer system to carry off.

No damage was reported from the wind although many trees lost branches.

Forecast is for colder weather.

CHURCHILL PRAISES FDR

LONDON, Nov. 10 — With Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's army routed and largely destroyed and a "mighty undertaking" launched by the United States in Africa, the democracies may regard present operations as at least "the end of the beginning," Prime Minister Winston Churchill said today.

Speaking at the annual lord mayor's luncheon, Churchill predicted that France "will rise again," paid lavish tribute to President Roosevelt as "author" of the African offensive and said:

"This is not the end, nor even the beginning of the end, but it is perhaps the end of the beginning."

The battle of Egypt, he said, was designed and timed as a "prelude and counterpoint to the momentous enterprise undertaken by the United States in the western end of the Mediterranean."

States forces swept into the great Algerian port and naval base of Oran.

The possibility that Darlan has chosen the alternative and has swung to the allied side was enhanced by a Vichy radio announcement that Chief of State Marshal Henri Philippe Petain has taken over Darlan's post as commander of all sea, land and air forces of France.

With a great deal of mystery and an obvious disinclination to discuss the matter in detail, a spokesman at allied military headquarters in London merely said:

Darlan In Algiers

"Darlan is in Algiers and is being entertained with all the respect and dignity due his rank and record."

The French admiral's "entertainer" is Lieut. Gen. Dwight David Eisenhower, commander of military operations in the European theatre of war and leader of the American invasion of west and north Africa expected shortly to surge across the border of Tunisia.

The surprising news that Darlan either has been captured or has decided to break with the axis and throw his personality and prestige—and even possibly the French fleet — on the side of democracy, coincided with these developments:

1—Vichy announced that Oran had been entered by American tank forces which planted the stars and stripes at a point 250 miles west of surrendered Algiers.

BANKER SHIFT AIMS AT AXIS

Businessmen Solve Labor Shortage By Turning Out Bomb Parts

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Nov. 10—If Hitler, Hirohito, or Mussolini could get one look at the "banker's shift" in action in Montclair, their qualms about the outcome of the war would increase immeasurably.

For the "banker's shift"—in reality, is made up of all types of business and professional men—would provide them with an object lesson of democracy-at-work in an all-out attempt to help the war effort.

At six p. m., the executives arrive at the Olljak Manufacturing Company factory in Depot Square and abandon their well-worn business suits for the greasy overalls of workmen.

Until nine p. m., the "banker's shift" concentrates on helping to turn out vital bomb parts and other munitions for the Army. They get straight union wages for their hours at the bench, too.

Montclair's unique contribution to America's war effort got its inception a month ago, when L. C. Vannam, president of the Olljak Co., disclosed that the labor shortage was hampering production.

In addition, the machines were lying idle between shifts from six to nine each evening when they might have been turning out needed materials. Vannam confided his troubles to George Heath, an ex-

Daring Tiny Torpedo Boats Slash At Enemy With Telling Effect

DESTROYER HARD HIT

Little Resistance Met As Troops Advance Under Naval Gun Protection

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—United States air forces and motor torpedo boats today forestalled all Japanese plans to launch an all-out attack on Guadalcanal as American ground units continued to advance East of Henderson air field.

With Marine and Navy fliers maintaining air superiority over the Solomons, the Japanese have been reluctant to move a large invasion fleet of warships and transports into the battle area. Small enemy fleet units, usually composed of only a few destroyers, have ventured into waters near Guadalcanal, but have been driven off by American planes and torpedo boats.

Troops Advance

Army troops are meeting little resistance as they push eastward under cover of fire from American warships. The Navy reported that the latest American advance took place near Tapanu river, four miles East of Koli Point, where Japanese reinforcements have been landed.

The daring little torpedo boats have slashed out at Jap destroyers with telling force during the last few days. The Navy's latest communiqué reported that the torpedo boats attacked two enemy destroyers, prowling in waters North of the Florida Islands, and scored a hit on one of the Jap warships. The action raised to 81 the number of enemy ships sunk or damaged during the battle for the Solomons.

Jap Planes Destroyed

American aircraft destroyed three more float-type biplanes at Rekata bay to bring the Jap plane losses to 544 in the Solomons campaign. The raid on Rekata bay revealed that U. S. planes are continuing their attacks throughout the Solomons and are preventing enemy planes from giving effective support to ground operations.

Meanwhile, other Navy and Marine aircraft kept pace with the ground advance by blasting Jap ground installations and landing boats on the beaches West of American positions on Guadalcanal.

Reports from Australia showed that Gen. Douglas MacArthur's bombers also are playing a large part in preventing enemy reinforcements and supplies from reaching the Solomons. The land-based bombers blasted another Jap transport, apparently headed for the islands.

Defeat Looms for Teen Age Training Delay

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—Senate and house conferees on the 18-19 year old draft bill convene again today with it considered virtually certain that the year's training amendment will be scrapped.

Indications were that the new draft measure will be finally passed by congress Thursday and sent to President Roosevelt so that drafting of the 'teen age youths may begin by mid-December.

Congressional leaders said that their plans were for the house to approve the conference report today. The senate has adjourned until Thursday when it is slated to take final action on the bill.

While the conferees reached no agreement in their first session yesterday, it was disclosed that house members are insisting that the army be given a bill for drafting 18-19 year olds without restrictions.

Mandate Issued

The house conferees received a direct mandate from the lower chamber to reject the training requirement, which was put into the senate bill by Sen. O'Daniel (D) Tex. By a vote of 173 to 40, the house rejected a motion by Rep. Rankin (D) Miss., calling for acceptance of the O'Daniel provision.

Rep. May (D) My., chairman of the house military affairs committee, declared that "we will force the senate to yield" on the issue.

"The senate provision is not workable," he added.

The O'Daniel amendment provides that young men subject to the draft under the new act could not be used for combat duty beyond the territorial boundaries of the continental United States until after they have had a year of training.

President Roosevelt, Secretary of War Stimson and other high officials of the war department have voiced vigorous opposition to the amendment, asserting that it would handicap the army in building up the nation's military forces. Guadalcanal 'Shaping Up,' Says Marine

American Force Numerically Superior, Holcombe Reports On Return To U. S.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—Returning from Guadalcanal, Lieut. Gen. Thomas Holcombe, commandant of the Marine Corps, said today that American land forces on the island are numerically superior to the Japanese and that "things are shaping up" which will stall the steady flow of Japanese reinforcements to that island.

Gen. Holcombe left the island on October 23, just before the Japanese launched their latest all-out attack to recapture Guadalcanal, but were turned back again by American Army, Navy and Marine Corps forces.

"I think things are shaping up and working out so there will be more interruption of these (Japanese) reinforcements," Holcombe told newspapermen during Secretary Knox' weekly press conference.

Holcombe said he found the Marine division on Guadalcanal in excellent shape and said he is now convinced that the American Marine as an individual "is superior to the Jap soldier in all respects." "We had feared otherwise for a while," Holcombe added.

Holcombe told reporters that while he was on Guadalcanal, American forces were subjected to their 79th air raid since they seized the southern Solomons from the Japanese early in August.

The general said that the night he arrived on the embattled island, the Japanese carried out their usual harassing night bombing by seaplanes.

Holcombe stated that Marines had named the leader of this enemy seaplane squadron "Louie The Lounge," and added that he came over with six to eight planes nightly and each plane dropped eight 100-pound bombs.

A rare Fall electrical and wind storm struck the Circleville district early Tuesday with rain totalling nearly one-half inch falling. Sewers in some parts of the city were flooded when the down-pour proved too heavy for the storm sewer system to carry off.

No damage was reported from the wind although many trees lost branches.

Forecast is for colder weather.

DARLAN HELD, BUT STATUS IS NOT REVEALED

AXIS LEADERS IN PARLEY

Hitler And Laval At Rome—Rommel Continues Flight—Quiet In Pacific

LONDON, Nov. 10 — Admiral Jean Francois Darlan, commander in chief of the defense forces of France, is in American hands, either a prisoner or potential ally, it was disclosed officially in London today as United

CHURCHILL PRAISES FDR

LONDON, Nov. 10 — With Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's army routed and largely destroyed and a "mighty undertaking" launched by the United States in Africa, the democracies may regard present operations as at least "the end of the beginning," Prime Minister Winston Churchill said today.

Speaking at the annual lord mayor's luncheon, Churchill predicted that France "will rise again," paid lavish tribute to President Roosevelt as "author" of the African offensive and said:

"This is not the end, nor even the beginning of the end, but it is perhaps the end of the beginning."

The battle of Egypt, he said, was designed and timed as a "prelude and counterpart to the momentous enterprise undertaken by the United States in the western end of the Mediterranean."

States forces swept into the great Algerian port and naval base of Oran.

The possibility that Darlan has chosen the alternative and has swung to the allied side was enhanced by a Vichy radio announcement that Chief of State Marshal Henri Philippe Petain has taken over Darlan's post as commander of all sea, land and air forces of France.

With a great deal of mystery and an obvious disinclination to discuss the matter in detail, a spokesman at allied military headquarters in London merely said:

Darlan in Algiers

"Darlan is in Algiers and is being entertained with all the respect and dignity due his rank and record."

The French admiral's "entertainer" is Lieut. Gen. Dwight David Eisenhower, commander of military operations in the European theatre of war and leader of the American invasion of west and north Africa expected shortly to surge across the border of Tunisia.

The surprising news that Darlan either has been captured or has decided to break with the axis and throw his personality and prestige—and even possibly the French fleet — on the side of democracy, coincided with these developments:

1—Vichy announced that Oran had been entered by American tank forces which planted the stars and stripes at a point 250 miles west of surrendered Algiers.

Heavy Fighting

of Morocco, where carrier-borne American dive-bombers went into action against the port and its defenses as ground troops closed in.

3—An American pincer movement was launched against Rabat, capital of French Morocco and site of the chief wireless station in the French colonial empire.

4—Reuter's (British) news agency heard a report from the French frontier that Adolf Hitler's Premier Mussolini and Pierre Laval, pro-Axis puppet chief of the French government, were in emergency consultation in Rome.

5—The Vichy government admitted a wide-spread movement in France and the colonies in aid of the American offensive. Mass arrests are being carried out in all principal cities of all persons "actively helping the enemy to break up the French empire," a Vichy broadcast said.

Positions Consolidated

6—American and British forces consolidated their positions at 14 beachheads and moved South and East to ensure control of all vital communications in preparation for a general drive through Tunisia to complete the task of crushing the Nazi-Fascist army, still in head-long retreat in Cyrenaica.

All efforts to obtain full information regarding Darlan's status were futile for the present. Observers could not recall any past instance where mention was made of "entertaining" a prisoner of war, and it was the use of this term—coupled with previous unconfirmed reports—that led to the possibility the admiral may have decided to renounce the Axis and fight with the United States to ensure his country's eventual deliverance.

May Change Sides

In this connection, the diplomatic correspondent of the Reuters news agency said there were "suspicions" that Darlan may now be ready to turn against Vichy.

This writer pointed out that if Darlan really had been determined to defend North Africa he would have ordered the French fleet out of Toulon to participate in naval operations.

Reuter also said there was considerable doubt as to whether Gen. August Nogues, governor general of North Africa, would prolong French resistance to the end.

The Vichy radio meanwhile asserted that French detachments from the interior are marching to Oran to "liberate" the town, a seeming admission that it has been captured and not only entered.

French Hold Out

At Casablanca, Vichy said, French troops are still holding out at the eastern approaches although heavily attacked by superior armed forces.

"The town is being violently shelled. Our land coastal batteries and the battleship Jean Bart (previously reported by Berlin to have been sunk) are replying vigorously and are keeping the Americans some kilometers from the town.

"In the Orleansville-Bldia regions our battalions are in contact with the enemy."

Vichy claimed that in the space of 48 hours, French troops thrice recaptured the Kasbah (walled section) of Mehedia, near Port Lyautey, "forcing the enemy to suspend landings."

Americans Advance

In the Algiers sector, it was said, an American column is marching in the direction of Bou-saada, 156 miles to the East, "but our forces are preparing most vigorous resistance."

Twenty American planes have been shot down in this area, Vichy claimed.

The independent French news agency, representing Gen. Charles De Gaulle, pointed out that virtually all pessimistic reports regarding North Africa were coming from Vichy "which obviously exaggerated all news of French resistance."

"It must not be forgotten," this agency said, "that the Germans doubtless are preparing to inflict terrible reprisals on metropolitan France and perhaps occupy the whole country."

TUNING FORK BALKS BREAK BY JOLIET CONVICTS

JOLIET, Ill., Nov. 10—Of all the sissy things with which to foil a prison break plot a tuning fork might be considered as about the ultimate. But that was exactly what Warden Joseph E. Ragen of Stateville prison used, he reported today, and it did the job perfectly.

Warden Ragen strolled from cell to cell rapping the tuning fork on the bars of the cells. When it gave a nice sharp ring, he walked on to the next cell. Eventually he came to the cell of Frank Garing, William Burke and Robert Pond. He rapped the tuning fork on one of the bars. Only a dull "clunk" sounded.

"Oh, oh," observed the warden. He sounded the next bar with the same result. The convicts shrugged their shoulders resignedly and prepared to depart for solitary. That's where they were today.

They had sawed laboriously through the window bars and snapped them off, replacing them with pieces of wood painted to resemble the steel bars.

RALPH CRIST NAVY PREPARES FUNERAL RITES TO MEET AXIS TO BE PRIVATE THRUST BY SUBS

Private funeral services will be conducted Wednesday at 3 p. m. in the Rinehart funeral home for Ralph L. Crist, 45, of 115 Northridge road, who died suddenly Monday after a heart attack. The Rev. Neil H. Peterson of the Methodist church will officiate with burial in the family lot in Forest cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home after 7 p. m. Tuesday.

Mr. Crist was born in Circleville September 17, 1897, a son of Harry and Jessie M. Littleton Crist. His parents; his widow, Hazel Greeno Crist whom he married July 29, 1927; a son, Donald, and a brother, Emmett L. Crist, all of Circleville, survive.

Mr. Crist was a member of the Lutheran church, lodge of Elks and Masonic order.

Pall bearers will include Charles Fullen, C. G. Chalfin, A. H. Rodgers, Guy Pettit, Ralph Leach and Ralph Haines.

COUNTY MAKES BIG PURCHASES OF WAR BONDS

Earl A. Smith, Pickaway county War Bond sales chairman, indicated Tuesday that the county's purchase of bonds and stamps during October may have established an all-time record for sales. Report of the first three weeks sent to the chairman by the Federal Reserve bank in Cleveland shows that more than $50,000 in bonds and stamps were purchased by Circleville and Pickaway county folk. This total is about $5,000 above the quota assigned for the month.

The district went well over its quota during September.

Mr. Smith, Richard McAllister, Roger Vega and Clark Will attended a War Bond meeting in Columbus Monday evening to hear Louis Lochner, war correspondent, discuss Germany and Hitler. Only permitted a short time in which to speak, Mr. Lochner's address proved of much interest to the group.

The meeting held in the Desher-Wallick hotel was organized to speed sale of bonds and stamps throughout the state.

field, were not engaged in further fighting during the last 24 hours.

The presence of enemy warships near Guadalcanal three days ago indicated that the Japanese are feeling out the American forces, preparatory to launching a large-scale land, sea, and air attack in an attempt to regain control of the island. However, the Japanese fleet of one cruiser and 10 destroyers was routed and the Navy reported that no large enemy fleet units have since been sighted in the area.

The Navy disclosed that the American destroyer sunk in action on October 11 was the U. S. S. Duncan, one of America's most modern destroyers. The Duncan was the only U. S. ship sunk in the Savo Island battle, which cost the Japs at least two heavy cruisers and five destroyers. Five officers and 58 enlisted men aboard the destroyer were reported killed or missing.

GIRAUD STARTS FORMING ARMY TO AID ALLIES

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN FRENCH NORTH AFRICA, Nov. 10—France's outstanding military figure, Gen. Henri Honoré Giraud, today assumed the task of organizing French North Africa to fight with the allied nations.

Announcement that the spectacular Giraud, who twice escaped from German imprisonment camps, would head the civil and military government of the French African colonies was made by Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander-in-chief of the allied expedition which has occupied key points on the African Atlantic and Mediterranean coasts.

Despite Vichy assertions that Gen. Giraud was still in France and loyal to the policies of the collaborationist Petain-Laval government, the foremost French military hero has set up the standard of "Fighting France" in Algiers "for the defeat of Germany and Italy and the liberation of France and her empire."

Gen. Eisenhower has pledged arms and equipment to the French army which Gen. Giraud will develop.

JIM DOOLITTLE UNDER FIRE IN AFRICAN FIGHT

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN FRENCH NORTH AFRICA, Nov. 10 — Brig. Gen. James H. Doolittle, commander of American air forces in North Africa, already has been under fire in the current American campaign, it was revealed today.

The plane in which the noted American airman—leader of last April's assault on Japan—was flying was attacked and the craft's co-pilot wounded.

Gen. Doolittle immediately took over the controls and all the duties of co-pilot and the flight continued.

BOY FUGITIVES QUIZZED ABOUT TARLTON THEFT

Arrest of two Boys' Industrial school fugitives Monday night is believed by Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff to have solved burglary of the Marvin Hartman store in Tarlton, although neither of the youths caught by Deputy Vern Pontius on Route 56 admitted taking part in the burglary.

Pontius arrested Charles Chasteen, 18, and Paul Kelley, 17, both of Franklin, O., after he received a call that they were loitering along the road.

Both gave misinformation about their names, residences and about where they had been, authorities said, but the sheriff declared that Kelley's general description is one given by Samuel Kuhn, who fired his shotgun at the burglar. The youth was wearing a jacket similar to the one Kuhn saw on the youth who fled the store which is operated in connection with the Tarlton postoffice.

Sheriff Radcliff stripped Kelley to try to find marks of shotgun pellets, but found none. Kelley was carrying a box of matches of an uncommon brand similar to two boxes found in the yard behind the store when the burglar fled.

About $6 in money and a supply of staples and tobacco were stolen about 3 a. m. Sunday by the burglar.

Kelley and Chasteen were returned to Lancaster after midnight Monday by B. I. S. officials. Of five boys who fled the institution Sunday only two remained at liberty, the third being caught in Amanda.

SPECIALIZING in any job is important. And, it takes only one taste of ice-cold Coca-Cola to tell you that its makers have specialized in refreshment for years. They created this utterly different drink 57 years ago. Today it's still individual—and delightfully so.

Note the difference in taste. You can sense the special blend of flavors. Sip again. Your thirst is gone before you know it, but something else arrives. This is refreshment. And it's refreshment that goes into energy—quickly—pleasantly.

When you've finished, you know you've enjoyed a drink made to a standard of quality, not to a standard of price. Folks the country over feel the same way about it. They appreciate the genuine... the real thing... Coke... Coca-Cola.

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called Coke. Coca-Cola and Coke mean the same thing... the real thing... "coming from a single source, and well known to the community."

Boy and girl, recreation and refreshment! There's two for company and two more for happiness and satisfaction. You know refreshment's first name, of course. Everybody knows Coke.

The best is always the better buy!

Unofficial reports indicated that Allied forces were moving eastward toward the French colony of Tunisia which borders Libya and the vital Axis base of Tripoli. President Roosevelt asked the Bey of Tunisia to grant American troops the right of passage through his domain, and there was no disposition anywhere to doubt that our forces were moving in that direction.

It was a gambling proposition whether the Allied occupational forces or Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's shattered army would reach Tripoli first. The Afrika Korps today was back-pedaling across Libya in a frantic attempt to escape annihilation.

Today's Middle East command communiqué mentioned "rearguard" actions at Sollum, on the Egyptian-Libyan border, which was taken as evidence that Rommel was deep in Libya on the flight from Egypt.

In Europe the RAF resumed its smashing raids on the Reich in a large-scale attack centered on the German port of Hamburg. The air ministry announcement that 15 planes were lost was an index that 300 or more were in the attacking force. In daylight raids Monday the RAF struck at Le Havre while American flying fortresses smashed the enemy submarine base at St. Nazaire.

Restricted activities in the southwest Pacific were all in favor of the Allied powers. Gen. Douglas MacArthur's bombers disabled a Japanese transport off the southern tip of New Ireland island and it was beached to avoid sinking. COUNTY MAKES BIG PURCHASES OF WAR BONDS

Earl A. Smith, Pickaway county War Bond sales chairman, indicated Tuesday that the county's purchase of bonds and stamps during October may have established an all-time record for sales. Report of the first three weeks sent to the chairman by the Federal Reserve bank in Cleveland shows that more than $50,000 in bonds and stamps were purchased by Circleville and Pickaway county folk. This total is about $5,000 above the quota assigned for the month.

The district went well over its quota during September.

Mr. Smith, Richard McAllister, Roger Vega and Clark Will attended a War Bond meeting in Columbus Monday evening to hear Louis Lochner, war correspondent, discuss Germany and Hitler. Only permitted a short time in which to speak, Mr. Lochner's address proved of much interest to the group.

The meeting held in the Desher-Wallick hotel was organized to speed sale of bonds and stamps throughout the state.

Oscar S. Woerber, 68, a carriage trimmer by trade and constable of Circleville township for 10 years prior to his retirement two years ago, died Tuesday at 9:30 a. m. at his home, 541 East Main street. Mr. Woerber had suffered a heart ailment.

Mr. Woerber was a native of Cincinnati, born June 25, 1874, a son of Amos and Mary Nussbaum Woerber. He married Lillie E. Mohr, January 25, 1900, in Cincinnati, his widow surviving. Mr. Woerber removed to Circleville in 1912. He also leaves a sister, Mrs. Joseph Bebeus of Cincinnati.

The body will be removed to Cincinnati Thursday where funeral services will be conducted Friday with burial to be in St. Mary's cemetery. Friends may call at the Mader chapel Wednesday to view the body. No services will be conducted in Circleville.

GIRAUD STARTS FORMING ARMY TO AID ALLIES

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN FRENCH NORTH AFRICA, Nov. 10—France's outstanding military figure, Gen. Henri Honoré Giraud, today announced the task of organizing French North Africa to fight with the allied nations.

Announcement that the spectacular Giraud, who twice escaped from German imprisonment camps, would head the civil and military government of the French African colonies was made by Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander-in-chief of the allied expedition which has occupied key points on the African Atlantic and Mediterranean coasts.

Despite Vichy assertions that Gen. Giraud was still in France and loyal to the policies of the collaborationist Pétain-Laval government, the foremost French military hero has set up the standard of "Fighting France" in Algiers "for the defeat of Germany and Italy and the liberation of France and her empire."

Gen. Eisenhower has pledged arms and equipment to the French army which Gen. Giraud will develop.

JIM DOOLITTLE UNDER FIRE IN AFRICAN FIGHT

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN FRENCH NORTH AFRICA, Nov. 10 — Brig. Gen. James H. Doolittle, commander of American air forces in North Africa, already has been under fire in the current American campaign, it was revealed today.

The plane in which the noted American airman—leader of last April's assault on Japan—was flying was attacked and the craft's co-pilot wounded.

Gen. Doolittle immediately took over the controls and all the duties of co-pilot and the flight continued.

MRS. HOWARD MCBROOM DIES NEAR ROCK HOUSE

Mrs. Mary Ellen McBroom, 69, wife of Howard McBroom, died Monday at 9 p. m. at her home east of Laurelville in the scenic Rock House district.

Other survivors besides Mr. McBroom are a son, Wayne, and a daughter, Mrs. Winnie Ogle, both of Columbus.

Funeral will be Thursday at 2 p. m. in Pleasant Hill U. B. church, near Cantwell Chiffs, with burial in the adjoining cemetery by the Deffenbaugh funeral home.

BOY FUGITIVES QUIZZED ABOUT TARLTON THEFT

Arrest of two boys' Industrial school fugitives Monday night is believed by Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff to have solved burglary of the Marvin Hartman store in Tarlton, although neither of the youths caught by Deputy Vern Pontius on Route 56 admitted taking part in the burglary.

Pontius arrested Charles Chasteen, 18, and Paul Kelley, 17, both of Franklin, O., after he received a call that they were loitering along the road.

Both gave misinformation about their names, residences and about where they had been, authorities said, but the sheriff declared that Kelley's general description is one given by Samuel Kuhn, who fired his shotgun at the burglar. The youth was wearing a jacket similar to the one Kuhn saw on the youth who fled the store which is operated in connection with the Tarlton postoffice.

Sheriff Radcliff stripped Kelley to try to find marks of shotgun pellets, but found none. Kelley was carrying a box of matches of an uncommon brand similar to two boxes found in the yard behind the store when the burglar fled.

About $6 in money and a supply of staples and tobacco were stolen about 3 a. m. Sunday by the burglar.

Kelley and Chasteen were returned to Lancaster after midnight Monday by B. I. S. officials.

Of five boys who fled the institution Sunday only two remained at liberty, the third being caught in Amanda.

SPECIALIZING in any job is important. And, it takes only one taste of ice-cold Coca-Cola to tell you that its makers have specialized in refreshment for years. They created this utterly different drink 57 years ago. Today it's still individual—and delightfully so.

Note the difference in taste. You can sense the special blend of flavors. Sip again. Your thirst is gone before you know it, but something else arrives. This is refreshment. And it's refreshment that goes into energy—quickly—pleasantly.

When you've finished, you know you've enjoyed a drink made to a standard of quality, not to a standard of price. Folks the country over feel the same way about it. They appreciate the genuine... the real thing... Coke... Coca-Cola.

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called Coke. Coca-Cola and Coke mean the same thing... the real thing... "coming from a single source, and well known to the community".

Boy and girl, recreation and refreshment! There's two for company and two more for happiness and satisfaction. You know refreshment's first name, of course. Every body knows Coke.

1942 HUNTING LAW EXPLAINED

BY PROTECTORS

Season Set Back To Nov. 20
As Protection Against Rabbit Fever

NOON DEADLINE SET

Bag Limits Are Four Bunnies
And Two Pheasants In Single Day

Explanation of Ohio's 1942 hunting laws was given Tuesday by Clarence Francis and Irvin Patrick, game protectors assigned to Pickaway county, in an effort to assist sportsmen in enjoying the hunting season without violating any of the established statutes.

Among important changes this year is that in which opening of the fall hunting season was delayed from November 15 to November 20. Two reasons were pointed out, first being that several years of research have proved to experts that dangers from tularemia (rabbit fever) are much less after November 20, the five days' difference being important since there is more chance for cold weather between November 15 and November 20 to kill the fever germs. Last year no fever case was reported after the first week of hunting season. Second, farmers in the heavy soybean belt are late in harvesting their beans, thus they do not favor hunting through unharvested fields.

Start at Noon

Open season on rabbit, Hungarian partridges and cock ring-neck pheasants starts at 12 o'clock noon November 20 and closes each day at 6:30 p. m. After the first day hunters may enter the field at 8:30. No game may be taken on Sunday.

The pheasant season closes December 5 at 6:30 p. m. while rabbits may be taken until January 5. Bag limits on rabbits is four a day and eight in possession after the first day. Four partridges may be taken in a day with the possession limit at any time. Two cock pheasants may be taken in a day with the possession limit. It is unlawful to have a dressed pheasant unless sex identity is apparent.

Mink and muskrats may be taken from November 20 to January 15, both dates inclusive, except that traps must not remain open on Sundays and each trap placed must have a tag thereon with the name and address of the trapper. Each trap found open on Sunday constitutes a separate offense.

Coon, Possum Season

The raccoon, skunk and opossum open season is from 6 p. m. November 20 to January 15 except that raccoon may be taken only from 7 p. m. to 7 a. m. No climbers or other devices for removing coon from dens are permitted in the woods when hunting and only two raccoon per person or group of persons hunting together may be possessed when hunting. No traps are permitted in ditch drains or other catchbasins if located on any road or land, either private or public, or any path commonly used by animals or people.

This is the first year that it is necessary for some member of the party hunting raccoon or opossum or other furbearing animals to carry and exhibit a white light visible all around the horizon for a distance of one-half mile at all times when in the woods or field at night.

A hunting license is required of every person regardless of age unless such person is the owner (if a resident of Ohio), share-cropper tenant or farm manager of which children on the lands on which they are hunting.

Must Carry License

Every hunter must carry a hunting license and display in the middle of the back on the outside garment an identification tag bearing the license number. The tag must be the one furnished with the license. This applies to trappers and night hunters as well.

Persons buying fur must first acquire a free permit from the Columbus office of the conservation department. Non-resident buyers must pay a fee of $50 for a permit.

Under a ruling established this year, owners must have free permits to keep any pet raccoons or other fur-bearing animals legally taken. This permit must be had within 10 days after the season is closed for such animals. Applications for these free permits are in the hands of local game protectors.

No Night Training

No training of dogs from 7 p. m. to 7 a. m. is permitted until November 20 at 6 p. m. when night hunting is permitted.

Hunters are asked to cooperate with landowners by obtaining permission before hunting, therefore avoiding embarrassment.

Violations should be reported to game protectors or sheriff's office, delay often resulting in failure to apprehend violators. Persons detecting violators are asked to ob-

COUNTY PLANS PROGRAMS FOR FARM INSTITUTES

Plans are progressing rapidly for Pickaway county's eight Farm Institutes to be conducted after the first of the year, institute leaders declared Monday night when they attended an organization meeting in Farm Bureau offices. F. K. Blair, county extension agent, presided over the session.

Despite the transportation problem, institutes are being urged to continue operation in order to provide diversion for farm folk who are busy producing Food for Freedom. Institutes this year will stress production of necessary goods, how the communities can respond to the war effort, and recreation to provide entertainment for farm and city folk.

The eight institutes have already been assigned dates, as follows:

Darby: January 20-21, Garnet Ridgeway, president.
Salt Creek: February 8-9, C. D. Rector, president.
Walnut: February 10-11, James Moody, president.
Tarleton: February 22-23, O. S. Mowery, president.
Scioto: February 1-2, Dwight Beathards, president.
Five Points: February 3-4, C. M. Reid, president.
Williamsport: February 5-6, Russell Wardell, president.
New Holland: February 11-12, Edward Kirkpatrick, president.

REICHELDERFER ENDS TRAINING AS MECHANIC

James R. Reichelderfer, son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Reichelderfer of near Laurelville, has completed 12 weeks of machine shop training under NYA. After four weeks of basic training were completed at Mt. Logan resident center, Chillicothe, he was recommended for a transfer to Miami resident center, Dayton, to take up airplane mechanics.

Reichelderfer has now received his Civil Service appointment as mechanic helper with the United States Air Corps at Patterson field.

Young women as well as young men between the ages of 17 and 25 can qualify for a similar appointment with starting salary $1,500 a year. The demand for trained airplane mechanics has shortened the training period. One month training at an NYA shop or resident center and two additional months training at Patterson field under the National Youth Administration are required.

Those training in Columbus are paid $25 a month and given free transportation on the NYA bus while those enrolling at resident center receive $10.80 to $19 a month in addition to room and board, medical and dental care, and transportation to and from the centers.

There are also industrial demands for NYA trainees in machine shop, welding, sheet metal and radio.

Miss Catherine Weiss, NYA field representative, will be at the United States employment office, Circleville, each Monday between 10:30 a. m. and 12 noon for interviews. Mail may be addressed to Miss Weiss at 11 South Fourth street, Columbus.

THREE RABBITS COST HUNTER TOTAL OF $59.10

Harry Lee, Pickaway township, paid Squire B. T. Hedges a total of $59.10 Monday after he was fined $15 and costs on each of three rabbits filed against him by game protectors. Lee was arrested with three rabbits in his possession. He was fined for each rabbit.

Charges were brought against him by Clarence Francis and Irvin Patrick, state conservation officers.

The three rabbits were given to the Home and Hospital by the game protectors.

APPLICATIONS MUST BE FILED WITH GAS PLEAS

Motorists Must Fill Out
Federal Forms Before
Registration Day

PAPERS NOW AVAILABLE

Most Of Required Data
Already Appears On
Vehicle Card

Circleville and Pickaway county motorists registering for basic mileage rations at school house registration dates November 12, 13 and 14 must take along their application forms, listing serial numbers on their tires and car registration cards. George D. McDowell, chairman of the Pickaway county war price and rationing board, and Eldred A. Cayce, chairman of the gasoline rationing panel, pointed out the application form necessity Tuesday as final plans for the registration were prepared.

Registration will take place in the 19 schools of the county and city from 4 p. m. to 9 p. m. on the three assigned days.

The application forms are now available at the county's 12 tire inspection stations.

Form Is Simple

"The form is simple," the rationing officials point out. "Most of the information can be obtained from the vehicle registration card. The most important information needed to fill out the application, however, is the list of serial numbers on every tire which you or any relative living in your house, own for that vehicle."

The serial numbers are the indented numbers on the tire walls. They are not to be confused with any raised numbers appearing on the tires. In case the serial numbers have been obliterated, only the branch name of the tire need be listed.

Five Tire Limit

The rationing board chairman urged car owners with more than five tires for each vehicle to dispose of these excess tires at once, since the school house registrar cannot issue a mileage ration book to any applicant who lists more than five tires. Excess tires can be sold to the government through the local office of the Railway Express Agency.

"Only basic ration books will be issued by the school house registrars," Mr. McDowell and Mr. Cayce said. "Motorists with car registration cards and properly filled out application forms will be issued A books providing for 240 miles of driving a month. Motorcycle owners will get D books, good for similar mileage. "No supplemental rations will

DRAFTEES GET VARIED DEGREES OF FURLONGHS

Part of Pickaway county's November draft contingent will enjoy 14-day furloughs while the other part will be restricted to seven days. Selective Service officials revealed Tuesday. As a result all of Pickaway county's November quota will conclude furloughs on the same day thus sending the entire delegation for the month into camp for classification and assignment at one time.

The national decree cutting furloughs from 14 days to seven days becomes effective November 17. Pickaway county's first contingent goes to Columbus for final physical examination the latter part of the present week, while the second half of the month's quota will be assigned a week later. The group going in the latter call will have only a single week's furlough.

Draft board has been informed that the revision of the furlough period was made necessary by "serious shortage of available men for the armed forces."

November calls will about clean up the county's list of available I-A men from the first and third registrations and will also take a large part of the available group from the fifth registration, which includes 20-year-olds who registered last June. Men with collateral dependents will be assigned in December, the board has indicated, with married men with wives only to be called in January, unless the teen age draft statute is speeded.

The board has not yet received any notice concerning size of its December call.

be issued at this registration time. So don't ask the registrar for any. However, anyone who feels he will need more mileage than the basic book provides may ask the registrar for an application form for a supplemental ration.

"This form is to be filled out later and presented to a local war price and rationing board. The board will issue a supplemental ration only after a careful examination of the applicant's need for additional mileage and his plans for car sharing.

Registration Offices

Applicants for basic rations should go to the schoolhouse registration site nearest their homes.

Schools where registration will be conducted and officials in charge include: Circleville, Frank Fischer and J. Wray Henry; Darby, Brice Connell; Williamsport, A. W. Boyer; Jackson, Pleigord Hansen; Monroe, A. E. Black; Perry, Warren E. Hobbie; Pickaway, Carl S. Burger; Salt Creek, H. A. Strous; Scioto, Robert D. Shauck; Walnut, C. D. Bennett; Washington, John A. Florence; Ashville, C. A. Higley; New Holland, H. K. Costlow; Duvall, Eunice P. Dennis; South Bloomfield, Karl O. Drum; Madison, Theodore E. Snyder; Muhlenberg, Mrs. Besie Schleich; Wayne, George W. STRONG MAN TURK

Strong Man Turk
Diplomats returning from the Near East report that one all-important result of the inspiring African campaign is its effect on Turkey.

This country, the key to Nazi invasion of the Asiatic Near East has very quietly sent troops to an obscure, but one of the most important corners of the map—west Turkey in the Trebizond area which skirts the Black Sea. This is the area where Nazi troops were expected to land in order to get around the high mountains of the Caucasus and push on into Iran and Iraq.

Such a move would endanger the British in Syria and Palestine, also the Russian oil fields, also would cut off all supplies to Russia from the Persian Gulf.

U. S. diplomats are glowing in their praise for the strong position Turkey has taken against the Nazis. She has built up her army to a force of 950,000 under arms, with an additional 500,000 trained men not under arms. Military equipment is arriving from the United States under the Lend-Lease agreement, which has helped materially to bolster Turkey's resistance to Nazi threats.

However, Ambassador Von Papen is extremely active, and there are many German agents in the country with large bankrolls. Some of this money goes to Arab leaders east and south of Turkey.

However the Turks have a strong Secret Police, and some of the German agents have been deported.

Now with British victories the Turks can be expected to be even more vigilant.

WAR MOVES MORE

WPB executive Maury Maverick, who has been sitting close to the war picture in Washington, has just come back from the Pacific Coast with a refreshing report on the way things are moving.

In Washington things move slowly. And officials who bat their head against stone walls of red tape sometimes get hopelessly discouraged. However, Maverick has reported to other WPB officials that when you get out into the rest of the country, especially on the Coast, you really realize how fast the war is going.

Troop trains slide onto great loading platforms alongside transports, men are embarked and out at sea almost before you can realize what is happening. Warehouse houses are stacked high with supplies being shipped overseas every week. There is an effortless speed about the whole thing which encouraged Maverick, whose son departed the other day for the Solomon Islands.

NOTE: Chief credit for the efficiency with which men and supplies are being shipped abroad goes to Lt. Gen. Brehon Somervell, in command of Service and Supplies. Ruthless when it comes to inefficiency, Somervell picks good men, fires his friends if they don't produce, is a dynamo of administrative energy. Somervell first was developed by Postmaster General Frank Walker when Walker was in charge of the Old National Emergency Council.

ROTHMAN'S

Behind the Fighting Front...

Grim and tough, he and his buddies are out there somewhere — fighting. And here at home, millions of more Americans are training intensively . . . toughening up . . . getting ready . . . and moving out . . . to join them.

The tremendous expansion and intensive training of our armed forces demanded the biggest transportation job in history. That meant railroad transportation — the continuous, mass transportation of men, munitions and equipment throughout the vast expanse of this land. These demands are being met — efficiently and safely.

Called on overnight, after the enemy struck at Pearl Harbor, the American railroads carried in organized movements during the first ten months of this war, more than 8,000,000 troops! Nearly four times more than in the same period of World War I. In addition, unknown numbers on furlough have traveled on regular trains.

It takes a lot of railroad equipment to handle the nation's armed forces. For example: To move one triangular infantry division of 15,000 men with their fighting equipment, requires 65 trains with 1,350 cars. Moreover, soldiers in this war are moved from five to six times during the training period, as compared with three times in the last war. They use 40 percent of the sleeping cars — 66 percent travel in Pullmans — and 15 percent of the coaches, continuously. And they have first call on all the rest. On top of that, the railroads are carrying millions of persons who formerly traveled by highway.

It all adds up to a tremendous increase — and when war necessities have made it impossible to get additional equipment. The railroads are getting every spark of service out of every unit of equipment they own. So, please remember this: When you can't get what you want on a train today, it is because our fighting men have the right-of-way. That's as it should be, and as every patriotic American wants it to be.

The Norfolk and Western Railway and the Norfolk and Western Family are in this war with everything they have. And they are proud that they can carry their full quota of America's fighting men, who will win complete and uncompromising Victory.

THREE RABBITS COST HUNTER TOTAL OF $59.10

Harry Lee, Pickaway township, paid Squire B. T. Hedges a total of $59.10 Monday after he was fined $13 and costs on each of three charges filed against him by game protectors. Lee was arrested with three rabbits in his possession. He was fined for each rabbit.

Charges were brought against him by Clarence Francis and Irvin Patrick, state conservation officers.

The three rabbits were given to the Home and Hospital by the game protectors.

Vehicle Card

Circleville and Pickaway county motorists registering for basic mileage rations at school house registration dates November 12, 13 and 14 must take along their application forms, listing serial numbers on their tires and car registration cards. George D. McDowell, chairman of the Pickaway county war price and rationing board, and Eldred A. Cayce, chairman of the gasoline rationing panel, pointed out the application form necessity Tuesday as final plans for the registration were prepared.

Registration will take place in the 19 schools of the county and city from 4 p. m. to 9 p. m. on the three assigned days.

The application forms are now available at the county's 12 tire inspection stations.

Form Is Simple

"The form is simple," the rationing officials point out. "Most of the information can be obtained from the vehicle registration card. The most important information needed to fill out the application, however, is the list of serial numbers on every tire which you or any relative living in your house, own for that vehicle."

The serial numbers are the indented numbers on the tire walls. They are not to be confused with any raised numbers appearing on the tires. In case the serial numbers have been obliterated, only the brand name of the tire need be listed.

Five Tire Limit

The rationing board chairmen urged car owners with more than five tires for each vehicle to dispose of these excess tires at once, since the school house registrar cannot issue a mileage ration book to any applicant who lists more than five tires. Excess tires can be sold to the government through the local office of the Railway Express Agency.

"Only basic ration books will be issued by the school house registrars," Mr. McDowell and Mr. Cayce said. "Motorists with car registration cards and properly filled out application forms will be issued A books providing for 240 miles of driving a month. Motorcycle owners will get D books, good for similar mileage.

DRAFTEES GET VARIED DEGREES OF FURLOUGHS

Part of Pickaway county's November draft contingent will enjoy 14-day furloughs while the other part will be restricted to seven days, Selective Service officials revealed Tuesday. As a result all of Pickaway county's November quota will conclude furloughs on the same day thus sending the entire delegation for the month into camp for classification and assignment at one time.

The national decree cutting furloughs from 14 days to seven days becomes effective November 17. Pickaway county's first contingent goes to Columbus for final physical examination the latter part of the present week, while the second half of the month's quota will be assigned a week later. The group going in the latter call will have only a single week's furlough.

Draft board has been informed that the revision of the furlough period was made necessary by "serious shortage of available men for the armed forces."

November calls will about clean up the county's list of available I-A men from the first and third registrations and will also take a large part of the available group from the fifth registration, which includes 20-year-olds who registered last June. Men with collateral dependents will be assigned in December, the board has indicated, with married men with wives only to be called in January, unless the teen age draft statute is speeded.

The board has not yet received any notice concerning size of its December call.

be issued at this registration time. So don't ask the registrar for any. However, anyone who feels he will need more mileage than the basic book provides may ask the registrar for an application form for a supplemental ration.

"This form is to be filled out later and presented to a local war price and rationing board. The board will issue a supplemental ration only after a careful examination of the applicant's need for additional mileage and his plans for car sharing.

Registration Offices

Applicants for basic rations should go to the schoolhouse registration site nearest their homes.

Schools where registration will be conducted and officials in charge include: Circleville, Frank Fischer and J. Wray Henry; Darby, Brice Connell; Williamsport, A. W. Boyer; Jackson, Pielgord Hansen; Monroe, A. E. Black; Perry, Warren E. Hobbie; Pickaway, Carl S. Burger; Salt Creek, H. A. Strous; Scioto, Robert D. Shauk; Walnut, C. D. Bennett; Washington, John A. STRONG MAN TURK

Diplomats returning from the Near East report that one all-important result of the inspiring African campaign is its effect on Turkey.

This country, the key to Nazi invasion of the Asiatic Near East has very quietly sent troops to an obscure, but one of the most important corners of the map—west Turkey in the Trebizond area which skirts the Black Sea. This is the area where Nazi troops were expected to land in order to get around the high mountains of the Caucasus and push on into Iran and Iraq.

Such a move would endanger the British in Syria and Palestine, also the Russian oil fields, also would cut off all supplies to Russia from the Persian Gulf.

U. S. diplomats are glowing in their praise for the strong position Turkey has taken against the Nazis. She has built up her army to a force of 850,000 under arms, with an additional 500,000 trained men not under arms. Military equipment is arriving from the United States under the Lend-Lease agreement, which has helped materially to bolster Turkey's resistance to Nazi threats.

However, Ambassador Von Papen is extremely active, and there are many German agents in the country with large bankrolls. Some of this money goes to Arab leaders east and south of Turkey.

However the Turks have a strong Secret Police, and some of the German agents have been deported.

Now with British victories the Turks can be expected to be even more vigilant.

WAR MOVES MORE

WPB executive Maury Maverick, who has been sitting close to the war picture in Washington, has just come back from the Pacific Coast with a refreshing report on the way things are moving.

In Washington things move slowly. And officials who bat their head against stone walls of red tape sometimes get hopelessly discouraged. However, Maverick has reported to other WPB officials that when you get out into the rest of the country, especially on the Coast, you really realize how fast the war is going.

Troop trains slide onto great

loading platforms alongside trans-ports, men are embarked and out at sea almost before you can realize what is happening. Warehouses are stacked high with supplies being shipped over-seas every week. There is an effortless speed about the whole thing which encouraged Maverick, whose son departed the other day for the Solomons.

NOTE: Chief credit for the efficiency with which men and supplies are being shipped abroad goes to Lt. Gen. Brehon Somervell, in command of Service and Supplies. Ruthless when it comes to inefficiency, Somervell picks good men, fires his friends if they don't produce, is a dynamo of administrative energy. Somervell first was developed by Postmaster General Frank Walker when Walker was in charge of the Old National Emergency Council.

Behind the Fighting Front...

Grim and tough, he and his buddies are out there somewhere — fighting. And here at home, millions of more Americans are training intensively ... toughening up ... getting ready ... and moving out ... to join them.

The tremendous expansion and intensive training of our armed forces demanded the biggest transportation job in history. That meant railroad transportation — the continuous, mass transportation of men, munitions and equipment throughout the vast expanse of this land. These demands are being met — efficiently and safely.

Called on overnight, after the enemy struck at Pearl Harbor, the American railroads carried in organized movements during the first ten months of this war, more than 8,000,000 troops! Nearly four times more than in the same period of World War I. In addition, unknown numbers on furlough have traveled on regular trains.

It takes a lot of railroad equipment to handle the nation's armed forces. For example: To move one triangular infantry division of 15,000 men with their fighting equipment, requires 65 trains with 1,350 cars. Moreover, soldiers in this war are moved from five to six times during the training period, as compared with three times in the last war. They use 40 percent of the sleeping cars — 66 percent travel in Pullmans — and 15 percent of the coaches, continuously. And they have first call on all the rest. On top of that, the railroads are carrying millions of persons who formerly traveled by highway.

It all adds up to a tremendous increase — and when war necessities have made it impossible to get additional equipment. The railroads are getting every spark of service out of every unit of equipment they own. So, please remember this: When you can't get what you want on a train today, it is because our fighting men have the right-of-way. That's as it should be, and as every patriotic American wants it to be.

The Norfolk and Western Railway and the Norfolk and Western Family are in this war with everything they have. And they are proud that they can carry their full quota of America's fighting men, who will win complete and uncompromising Victory.

SPARTAN LEADERSHIP
IT DOES not escape the notice of the American public that Lieut. Gen. Bernard Montgomery, who has won this great battle in North Africa and possibly changed the course of the war, is a tough fellow. Not tough in his mode of life, in the common acceptance of that term, but tough physically and mentally.
Here is a Spartan soldier who doesn't seem to have any vices or weaknesses. He doesn't smoke or drink — apparently because he simply isn't interested in that sort of thing. He is a lean, hard fighter, with a keen brain, and all his faculties seem concentrated on war. He is careless of dress and short of speech, and not much interested in personal comforts. He doesn't swagger. He likes to ride to the front in trucks and armored cars with his men, and to fight along with them when he gets there.
But this doesn't mean laxity in command. He demands that his men harden themselves and stay hard, as he does. Last year he ordered physical training at 7 a. m. for officers and clerks at headquarters, and made all ranks up to brigadier run a six-mile course once a week. He laid out that course himself, and set the example for using it. He insists on frugal life and Spartan behavior for all.
Here is a change, indeed, from the luxurious life of British officers in Cairo not so long ago. And here is a model for American troops and American youth. In fact, it is an example for everybody in these times. Work hard and keep fit!

LETTERS AND CODES
ONE OF the oldest and easiest forms of getting military information through censorship nets by means of codes is that of corresponding with strange soldiers. The group which starts correspondence with members of the fighting forces whom it has not known previously lets itself open to that sort of espionage. The group may mean well, but is used by people who do not mean well.
It's not smart to write to unknown soldiers. It's not only silly, but dangerous. If every girl with the eager pen of a ready writer would write impersonal letters to some soldier whom she does know, and would omit correspondence with those she doesn't there would be fewer leaks in military information.
Secretary of War Stimson urges people to stop writing blind letters.
A politician nowadays needs to be built like a Florida beach crab, that can move in any direction without turning around.
He who lives by politics must expect bouquets and bricks.

Even though I don't think too much of the French as a people I do regret that we have to conduct even minor warfare on them for they always have been friends of America and most of them still are. But we can not do otherwise under present circumstances.

GREAT WAR RECORD
WASHINGTON: Mrs. Roosevelt, talking to a friend some time ago, remarked that she didn't mind criticism of herself, regarding Mayris Chaney, the dancing girl, or anything else. But she said she did get depressed over the flood of anonymous letters she had received about Franklin Jr., being "a slacker."
Franklin Jr., had had an appendicitis operation and was laid up for a while, but apparently the public did not realize what had happened.
Mrs. Roosevelt went on to say that her eldest son Jimmy had seen some very dangerous service with the Marine Corps commandos in England, and that Elliott had taken 18,000 photos flying low over the Libyan desert at great risk.
Actually she could have gone much further with justifiable pride in reviewing the war record of her sons, for Franklin Jr., has seen more service in a field of danger than most men. He has been on a destroyer in the North Atlantic for a total of 18 months conveying ships to England and Iceland. Franklin is now a gunnery officer, lieutenant junior grade, age 28.
John Roosevelt, the youngest son, age 26, is an ensign with a division of destroyers at San Diego, sometimes at sea, sometimes ashore.
Jimmy, age 34, is a major in the Marine Corps, having served with great bravery in the Solomon Islands, and had he not been the son of the President, undoubtedly would have been decorated. Unfortunately his stomach ulcers have returned, he has lost 15 pounds is as thin as Mahatma Gandhi and is confined to a West Coast hospital.

DON'T TELL THE ENEMY
Washington newspapers the other day carried a story about the death of Lt. Col. Philip N. Bush, an air corps officer, who died "in line of duty" while cleaning a .45 caliber automatic. However, here is the real story behind Col. Bush's death.
Col. Bush was in the Yale Club in New York where he had a drink at the bar with one or two casual acquaintances. During the course of the conversation he expressed enthusiasm over the fact that he was leaving shortly for Africa, giving the date of his departure. Friends say that while he was indiscreet he did not reveal any military secrets.
At any rate, his conversation was reported to the Army by those who believed he had been indiscreet. Col. Bush was ordered confined to quarters at Bolling field, Washington. The next morning he was found dead, shot through the abdomen.
Note: Col. Bush came from an old, distinguished family. He had served with distinction in the last war, was a member of the famed Lafayette Escadrille.

LA GUARDIA CALLS ST. PETER
Even the "Little Flower" has trouble reaching the big shots. Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia is a man of influence but he says there are only three important men in Washington he can get action from by telephone. These are Jesse Jones, General Somervell, and Admiral Moreell.
"The others," says LaGuardia, "consider themselves too important to talk on the telephone, and if you do get a call through, (Continued on Page Three)

Treatment of Nose During a Cold Varies as It Advances

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
A COLD in the head is an infection of the mucous membrane of the nose. In health, the membrane of the nose is an extensive, thick, soft cushion, covered with mucous, and well supplied with blood vessels.
When a cold strikes, these membranes go through three stages.
Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.
of change. First, there is a great engorgement of the blood vessels, and there is also a drying of the surface of the membrane. This gives the feeling of tightness, stiffness and dry discomfort. The second stage is when white blood cells, or phagocytes, wander out on the surface of the membrane and begin to fight the germs. There is some little discharge at this time, but of a watery character.
The third stage is one in which the germs have been licked and engulfed by the white blood cells, and they begin to be discharged in masses of mucus. The mucous glands have been stimulated to abnormal activity and great masses of mucus are discharged.
General Treatment
The general treatment of a cold consists in making the patient as comfortable as possible with rest, hot foot baths, protective blankets and such medicines as aspirin.
Everyone, however, thinks that the local condition in the nose should be treated, and while this does appear logical, it should be done with some regard for the changes that are going on.
During the first stage applications to the inside of the nose are not only futile, but harmful. What is needed is moisture for the swollen, dry membrane. So steam inhalations and steam kettles to moisten the atmosphere are in order. Plenty of fluids by mouth, so that the whole body is full of fluid, is an adjunct to the local administration of moisture.
During the second stage—about the second or third day—the less local treatment the better because manipulation might interfere with the action of the white blood corpuscles.
Douches and Sprays
The third stage, heralded by the discharge of mucus and pus, indicates that the battle between the germs and the white blood corpuscles is about over and now local treatment may be of great help and relief. The accumulated debris should be removed by douching and softening sprays.
As good a solution to use as any is salt solution. It dissolves mucus and does the slightest amount of harm.
Drugs for the nose should be selected with care as the ones with destructive action do more harm than good.
A new method of giving vaccines for the prevention of colds is to spray it in the nose. Good results are reported in 74 per cent of cases, failures in 16 per cent.
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
O. S.—Is there danger of cancer's developing from fibroid tumor of the uterus? Is there danger of cancer's developing from a large laceration of the uterus? Is there any medication that would reach these conditions enough to heal without having an operation?
Answer: Fibroid of the uterus is no danger of cancer. Laceration of cervix—there is a chance of cancer's developing. Using some sort of palliative medication for these things is far more dangerous than the simple operation involved.
EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR
THE DOORMAN at the Belvedere Chateau knew the rakish lines of the car winding its way up the Hollywood hillside. As the headlights flashed around the last sharp curve, he strolled across the awning entrance to arrive at the doorway exactly when the car pulled to a stop.
"Good evening, Mr. Martin."
Bruce grinned a friendly greeting and went into the palatial, glittering building.
He crossed the marble foyer with his arrogant, slouching gait and ascended the stairs. Such an impatient man, the girl at the switchboard smiled to herself. Never could wait for an elevator.
Toinette's maid took his light sport topcoat and gave a glance of dismay at his tan tweed suit. But Bruce was crossing the white, high entrance hall to pause at the top of the three steps leading into the drawing room. "Hello."
Toinette, her white evening dress in sharp relief against the rich, dark scenic-tapestried wall, whirled about with a low cry of welcome. Then she stood staring at him, the jade cigarette still flaming in her raised hand.
Bruce returned her gaze across the luxurious splendor of a room that was a replica of one in the Palace of Versailles. One black eyebrow lifted in amused irony.
"You look like the Statue of Liberty."
"You didn't dress!" She snapped the lighter shut.
"No. Want to make something of it?"
Toinette's small hands clenched under their rings. She controlled her emotions with tremendous effort. Then she moved toward him across the deep rugs, her lips trembling in a smile, her eyes blazing with sympathy.
"Darling! You are blue again!" She took his hand and cradled it in hers, then lifted it in a sweeping gesture to her lips, held it against her cheek. "You feel better now?"
Bruce Martin uttered a mirthless laugh. "You're a devil, Toinette." He jerked his hand from her. "You'd make a first-class military strategist."
She moved closer to him and raised her slumberous eyes to search his face in a compelling gaze. "You thank my advances are—well timed?"
"Yeah," Bruce admitted sardonically. "But it's your retreats that are masterpieces."
Her eyes held his, her fingers moved slowly up the sleeve of his coat. With a bitter smile he came down the three steps and took her in his arms.

The telephone rang, and the maid came in to wait for their kias to end. "Mister Jackson," she said.
Bruce released her quickly. "Run along," he said. "The great career is calling."
Toinette raised her hands to pull his face toward her. "I love you," she said in her husky, pulsing accent. "I think we should be married, yes?"
He tore her hands away with an angry gesture. "So now it's slapstick, is it?"
She didn't wait to argue with him, but turned and ran through the hall, closing the door behind her. She talked to Link Jackson from her turquoise satin chaise longue.
"Bruce is here," she nodded, "and I have just told him we would be married."
"What did he say?" Link's peremptory tones carried clearly.
She shrugged delicate shoulders. "But naturally he is overwhelmed." "Uh huh. Well—Cros tonight." "But he is not dressed. We might stay home just once, Link, yes?" "No!" Link thundered. "The studio photographer is going to be there. He'll get the official engagement snap. You be at Cros in an hour or you can look for a new agent, see?"
Bruce was in one of the deep divans, smoking savagely, when Toinette came back to the drawing room. She crept into the circle of his arm and whispered. "It's not a joke, darling. I think we should be married."
"Yeah?"
"You wanted to marry me once," she reminded him in a silken, husky whisper.
"Sure. I was nuts on the subject. But you showed me what I was in your life." His voice was hard with its old bitterness, his lips drooped in their sardonic smile.
"You don't want to marry me now?"
"I don't think so. You've got your career. I've got my freedom. We're both happy, aren't we?"
She answered in a whisper so fragile it was barely audible. "I am—desperately—unhappy." Slowly she raised her small, exquisite face, to look at him through tear-wet eyes.
"I—love—you," she murmured, and raised her arms to wind them about his neck in passionate embrace. Bruce Martin was caught once more in the tortuous maze of his emotions.
For those few moments, the old fery tenderness swept over them. Bruce lapsed into the dreams that this exotic creature had first aroused in him.

"We'll go away somewhere!" he said again. "We'll leave everything behind—and a lonely spot out of the world . . ."
But her time was growing short. Toinette murmured they would talk of their life tomorrow. Now they must celebrate.
"I will go weath you while you change," she planned.
"We're not going anywhere." Bruce was his old, buoyant, commanding self again. "We're going to stay here and break a bottle of champagne."
"Let's break it at Cros's," Toinette pleaded. "I want to go to Cros's. Please let us go to Cros's, darling."
His fingers pressed hard into her white, bare shoulders. "Why? Because it's important to your career?"
"Of course not!"
His eyes were black with suspicion, distrust. "I don't think you have changed," he accused her. "I think this is just a trick. Another one of Jackson's ideas, probably. Isn't it? ISN'T IT?"
"No," she cried hoarsely. "I love you."
His hands dropped to his side. His voice was heavy with disgust. "I don't know why I got on this merry-go-round again." He turned and left. The door slammed after him.
He drove with fendish fury back down the hill, with the lights of Hollywood spread out below in gay, colored pattern. Passion and bitterness again held him in their relentless grasp. His mind a seething turmoil, he turned the car almost unconsciously toward the ocean. Half an hour later he pulled up to the gate leading to the Nordex landing field, waited for his signal to pass, and roared on through to come to a sliding halt beside the great hangar.
A plane stood in the shadow of the hangar. The mechanic grinned at Bruce as he appeared. "You taking her up, Mr. Martin?"
Bruce nodded. As he climbed into the plane, he saw the boss and Nate, the test pilot, walking around the corner of the hangar toward the plane. As the engine roared and the plane swept forward, they shouted, came on running, their arms waving in important attempts to stop him. Bruce smiled grimly. His fingers gripped the controls, and he pointed the nose of the plane up toward the moonlit sky.

SPARTAN LEADERSHIP

IT DOES not escape the notice of the American public that Lieut. Gen. Bernard Montgomery, who has won this great battle in North Africa and possibly changed the course of the war, is a tough fellow. Not tough in his mode of life, in the common acceptance of that term, but tough physically and mentally.

Here is a Spartan soldier who doesn't seem to have any vices or weaknesses. He doesn't smoke or drink — apparently because he simply isn't interested in that sort of thing. He is a lean, hard fighter, with a keen brain, and all his faculties seem concentrated on war. He is careless of dress and short of speech, and not much interested in personal comforts. He doesn't swagger. He likes to ride to the front in trucks and armored cars with his men, and to fight along with them when he gets there.

But this doesn't mean laxity in command. He demands that his men harden themselves and stay hard, as he does. Last year he ordered physical training at 7 a. m. for officers and clerks at headquarters, and made all ranks up to brigadier run a six-mile course once a week. He laid out that course himself, and set the example for using it. He insists on frugal life and Spartan behavior for all.

Here is a change, indeed, from the luxurious life of British officers in Cairo not so long ago. And here is a model for American troops and American youth. In fact, it is an example for everybody in these times. Work hard and keep fit!

LETTERS AND CODES

ONE OF the oldest and easiest forms of getting military information through censorship nets by means of codes is that of corresponding with strange soldiers. The group which starts correspondence with members of the fighting forces whom it has not known previously lets itself open to that sort of espionage. The group may mean well, but is used by people who do not mean well.

It's not smart to write to unknown soldiers. It's not only silly, but dangerous. If every girl with the eager pen of a ready writer would write impersonal letters to some soldier whom she does know, and would omit correspondence with those she doesn't there would be fewer leaks in military information.

Secretary of War Stimson urges people to stop writing blind letters.

A politician nowadays needs to be built like a Florida beach crab, that can move in any direction without turning around.

He who lives by politics must expect bouquets and bricks.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up in darkness and fully convinced that no matter how much I like this War Time in Summer it is practically offset by Winter. Every morning I get up vowing that this night I will get to bed early and learn the feeling of getting up without regret, but somehow I never do. Belowstairs to coffee and the morning prints, reading with great relish about further American advances in North Africa and the slapping of more Japs in the Solomons. Even though I don't think too much of the French as a people I do regret that we have to conduct even minor warfare on them for they always have been friends of America and most of them still are. But we can not do otherwise under present circumstances.

Bob Brenner told me of a trip down the Scioto with Sam Rader and was really optimistic over condition of the water. Bob, who knows his plants, says some are now growing in the river for the first time in a lot of years, and that everywhere he saw bass weeds. If that river is kept reasonably clean then we may expect some good fishing hereabouts in a couple of years, for rivers feed fish into the creeks, doing a much better job than can possibly be expected of the conservation department. We have some truly fine streams if the river is permitted to feed them.

Circleville is due for a test blackout soon and a county-wide blackout must be staged before the end of the year. So, if you don't know your duty during a blackout you should get in touch with your air raid warden at once. Heavy fines are provided for violation of blackout regulations, and the blackout certainly will come without too much warning. Be prepared.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

GREAT WAR RECORD

WASHINGTON: Mrs. Roosevelt, talking to a friend some time ago, remarked that she didn't mind criticism of herself, regarding Mayris Chaney, the dancing girl, or anything else. But she said she did get depressed over the flood of anonymous letters she had received about Franklin Jr., being "a slacker."

Franklin Jr., had had an appendicitis operation and was laid up for a while, but apparently the public did not realize what had happened.

Mrs. Roosevelt went on to say that her eldest son Jimmy had seen some very dangerous service with the Marine Corps commandos in England, and that Elliott had taken 18,000 photos flying low over the Libyan desert at great risk.

Actually she could have gone much further with justifiable pride in reviewing the war record of her sons, for Franklin Jr., has seen more service in a field of danger than most men. He has been on a destroyer in the North Atlantic for a total of 18 months conveying ships to England and Iceland. Franklin is now a gunnery officer, lieutenant junior grade, age 28.

John Roosevelt, the youngest son, age 26, is an ensign with a division of destroyers at San Diego, sometimes at sea, sometimes ashore.

Jimmy, age 34, is a major in the Marine Corps, having served with great bravery in the Solomon Islands, and had he not been the son of the President, undoubtedly would have been decorated. Unfortunately his stomach ulcers have returned, he has lost 15 pounds as thin as Mahatma Gandhi and is confined to a West Coast hospital.

DON'T TELL THE ENEMY

Washington newspapers the other day carried a story about the death of Lt. Col. Philip N. Bush, an air corps officer, who died "in line of duty" while cleaning a .45 caliber automatic. However, here is the real story behind Col. Bush's death.

Col. Bush was in the Yale Club in New York where he had a drink at the bar with one or two casual acquaintances. During the course of the conversation he expressed enthusiasm over the fact that he was leaving shortly for Africa, giving the date of his departure. Friends say that while he was indiscreet he did not reveal any military secrets.

At any rate, his conversation was reported to the Army by those who believed he had been indiscreet. Col. Bush was ordered confined to quarters at Bolling field, Washington. The next morning he was found dead, shot through the abdomen.

Note: Col. Bush came from an old, distinguished family. He had served with distinction in the last war, was a member of the famed Lafayette Escadrille.

LA GUARDIA CALLS ST. PETER

Even the "Little Flower" has trouble reaching the big shots. Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia is a man of influence but he says there are only three important men in Washington he can get action from by telephone. These are Jesse Jones, General Somervell, and Admiral Moreell.

"The others," says LaGuardia, "consider themselves too important to talk on the telephone, and if you do get a call through, (Continued on Page Three)

Treatment of Nose During a Cold Varies as It Advances

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A COLD in the head is an infection of the mucous membrane of the nose. In health, the membrane of the nose is an extensive, thick, soft cushion, covered with mucous, and well supplied with blood vessels.

When a cold strikes, this membrane goes through three stages. Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

of change. First, there is a great engorgement of the blood vessels, and there is also a drying of the surface of the membrane. This gives the feeling of tightness, stiffness and dry discomfort. The second stage is when white blood cells, or phagocytes, wander out on the surface of the membrane and begin to fight the germs. There is some little discharge at this time, but of a watery character.

The third stage is one in which the germs have been licked and engulfed by the white blood cells, and they begin to be discharged in masses of mucus. The mucous glands have been stimulated to abnormal activity and great masses of mucus are discharged.

General Treatment

The general treatment of a cold consists in making the patient as comfortable as possible with rest, hot foot baths, protective blankets and such medicines as aspirin. Everyone, however, thinks that the local condition in the nose should be treated, and while this does appear logical, it should be done with some regard for the changes that are going on.

During the first stage applications to the inside of the nose are not only futile, but harmful. What is needed is moisture for the swollen, dry membrane. So steam inhalations and steam heat to moisten the atmosphere are in order. Plenty of fluids by mouth, so that the whole body is full of fluid, is an adjunct to the local administration of moisture.

During the second stage—about the second or third day—the less local treatment the better because manipulation might interfere with the action of the white blood corpuscles.

Douches and Sprays

The third stage, heralded by the discharge of mucus and pus, indicates that the battle between the germs and the white blood corpuscles is about over and now local treatment may be of great help and relief. The accumulated debris should be removed by douching and softening sprays.

As good a solution to use as any is salt solution. It dissolves mucus and does the slightest amount of harm.

Drugs for the nose should be selected with care as the ones with destructive action do more harm than good.

A new method of giving vaccines for the prevention of colds is to spray it in the nose. Good results are reported in 74 per cent of cases, failures in 16 per cent.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. S.—Is there danger of cancer's developing from fibroid tumor of the uterus? Is there danger of cancer's developing from a large laceration of the uterus? Is there any medication that would reach these conditions enough to heal without having an operation?

A.—Fibroid of the uterus—no danger of cancer. Laceration of cervix—there is a chance of cancer's developing. Using some sort of palliative medication for these things is far more dangerous than the simple operation involved.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR

THE DOORMAN at the Belvedere Chateau knew the rakish lines of the car winding its way up the Hollywood hillside. As the headlights flashed around the last sharp curve, he strode across the swinging entrance to arrive at the doorway exactly when the car pulled to a stop.

"Good evening, Mr. Martin," Bruce grinned a friendly greeting and went into the palatial, glittering building.

He crossed the marble foyer with his arrogant, slouching gait and ascended the stairs. Such an impatient man, the girl at the switchboard smiled to herself. Never could wait for an elevator.

Toinette's maid took his light sport topcoat and gave a glance of dismay at his tan tweed suit. But Bruce was crossing the white, high entrance hall to pause at the top of the three steps leading into the drawing room. "Hello."

Toinette, her white evening dress in sharp relief against the rich, dark scenic-tapestried wall, whirled about with a low cry of welcome. Then she stood staring at him, the jade cigarette still flaming in her raised hand.

Bruce returned her gaze across the luxurious splendor of a room that was a replica of one in the Palace of Versailles. One black eyebrow lifted in amused irony.

"You look like the Statue of Liberty," she snapped the lighter shut.

"No. Want to make something of it?"

Toinette's small hands clenched under their rings. She controlled her emotions with tremendous effort. Then she moved toward him across the deep rug, her lips tremulous in a smile, her eyes blazing with sympathy.

"Darling! You are blue again!" She took his hand and cradled it in hers, then lifted it in a sweeping gesture to her lips, held it against her cheek. "You feel better now?"

Bruce Martin uttered a mouthless laugh. "You're a devil, Toinette." He jerked his hand from her. "You'd make a first-class military strategist."

She moved closer to him and raised her slumberous eyes to search his face in a compelling gaze. "You think my advances are—well timed?"

"Yeah," Bruce admitted sardonically. "But it's your retreats that are masterpieces."

Her eyes held his, her fingers moved slowly up the sleeve of his coat. With a bitter smile he came down the three steps and took her in his arms.

The telephone rang, and the maid came in to wait for their kiss to end. "Mister Jackson," she said. Bruce released her quickly. "Run along," he said. "The great career is calling."

Toinette raised her hands to pull his face toward her. "I love you," she said in her husky, pulsing accent. "I think we should be married, yes?"

He tore her hands away with an angry gesture. "So now it's slapstick, is it?"

She didn't wait to argue with him, but turned and ran through the hall, closing the door behind her. She talked to Link Jackson from her turquoise satin chaise longue.

"Bruce is here," she nodded, "and I have just told him we would be married."

"What did he say?" Link's peremptory tones carried clearly. She shrugged delicate shoulders. "But naturally he is overwhelmed."

"Uh huh. Well—Ciros tonight." "But he is not dressed. We might stay home just once, Link, yes?"

"No!" Link thundered. "The studio photographer is going to be there. He'll get the official engagement snap. You be at Ciro's in an hour or you can look for a new agent, see?"

Bruce was in one of the deep divans, smoking savagely, when Toinette came back to the drawing room. She crept into the circle of his arm and whispered. "It's not a joke, darling. I think we should be married."

"Yeah?"

"You wanted to marry me once," she reminded him in a sly, husky whisper.

"Sure. I was nuts on the subject. But you showed me what I was in your life." His voice was hard with its old bitterness, his lips drooped in their sardonic smile.

"You don't want to marry me now?"

"I don't think so. You've got your career. I've got my freedom. We're both happy, aren't we?"

She answered in a whisper so fragile it was barely audible. "I am—desperately—unhappy." Slowly she raised her small, exquisite face, to look at him through tear-wet eyes.

"I—love—you," she murmured, and raised her arms to wind them about his neck in passionate embrace. Bruce Martin was caught once more in the tortuous maze of his emotions.

For those few moments, the old fervent tenderness swept over them. Bruce lapsed into the dreams that this exotic creature had first aroused in him.

"We'll go away somewhere!" he said again. "We'll leave everything behind—and a lonely spot out of the world..."

But her time was growing short. Toinette murmured they would talk of their life tomorrow. Now they must celebrate.

"I will go weath you while you change," she planned.

"We're not going anywhere." Bruce was his old, buoyant, commanding self again. "We're going to stay here and break a bottle of champagne."

"Let's break it at Ciro's," Toinette pleaded. "I want to go to Ciro's. Please let us go to Ciro's, darling."

His fingers pressed hard into her white, bare shoulders. "Why? Because it's important to your career?"

"Of course not!"

His eyes were black with suspicion, distrust. "I don't think you have changed," he accused her. "I think this is just a trick. Another one of Jackson's ideas, probably. Isn't it? ISN'T IT?"

"No," she cried hoarsely. "I love you."

His hands dropped to his side. His voice was heavy with disgust. "I don't know why I got on this merry-go-round again." He turned and left. The door slammed after him.

He drove with fabled fury back down the hill, with the lights of Hollywood spread out below in gay, colored pattern. Passion and bitterness again held him in their relentless grasp. His mind a seething turmoil, he turned the car almost unconsciously toward the ocean. Half an hour later he pulled up to the gate leading to the Nordex landing field, waited for his signal to pass, and roared on through to come to a sliding halt beside the great hangar.

A plane stood in the shadow of the hangar. The mechanic grinned at Bruce as he appeared. "You taking her up, Mr. Martin?"

Bruce nodded. As he climbed into the plane, he saw the boss and Nate, the test pilot, walking around the corner of the hangar toward the plane. As the engine roared and the plane swept forward, they shouted, came on running, their arms waving in important attempts to stop him. Bruce smiled grimly. His fingers gripped the controls and he pointed the nose of the plane up toward the moonlit sky.

American Gothic Homes • Subject of Discussion

1812 Daughters
Hear Talk By
Mrs. Barrett

SOCIAL CALENDAR

Mrs. Walter V. Barrett of Chillicothe presented an excellent paper on the subject, "Homes, American Gothic," at the Guest Day meeting of Major John Boggs chapter, Daughters of 1812, held Monday at the home of Mrs. Noah G. Spangler of West High street. Mrs. Orion King was co-hostess for the affair which marked the sixth anniversary of the founding of the chapter. Mrs. King was founder and organizing president. Clearly and vividly Mrs. Barrett discussed backgrounds of early life in America sketching scenes both humorous and stern to bring to mind long forgotten experiences in the lives of the guests. Her colorful word pictures of places and pioneers of her home community were cleverly and beautifully expressed in a year cycle.

Mrs. H. O. Pile, chapter president, welcomed the guest group which included several representatives of other organizations, Mrs. James P. Moffitt of East Franklin street, regent of Pickaway Plains chapter, D. A. R.; Mrs. Frank E. Ebbe, representative of the Daughters of Union Veterans; Mrs. B. T. Hedges and Mrs. Charles Smith, American Legion Auxiliary; Miss Madge Sullivan of Columbus, the Lucas Sullivan chapter, Daughters of 1812; Mrs. David Pittinger and Mrs. Martin L. Dumble of Columbus, of the Colonel William Ball chapter, Daughters of the American Colonists, and Miss Leola C. Somers of Chillicothe.

Mrs. Pile led the ritualistic opening of the chapter which was concluded with group singing of the Star-Spangled Banner. Light refreshments were served in the dining room at the close of the program. A large bowl of lovely yellow and white chrysanthemums centered the tea table, attractive in its appointments of silver and crystal. Mrs. A. E. Bernstein of Chillicothe and Mrs. Pile presided.

Monday Club
Mrs. Melvin Kiger read a deeply interesting paper on "Music of the Sea" Monday at the meeting of the Monday club in the Library Trustees' room, Memorial hall. The program was in charge of the Music Division of the club. Mrs. Kiger said in part, "Music is truly a universal language for, whether it be heard in Germany, England or America, it gives the same affect to its audience. Music and Art are synonymous in this respect. Art is nature in being, and music is the voice of the world."

Mrs. Kiger pointed out how the effects of nature have been felt in the works of the romantic composers, Mendelssohn, Schubert and Schuman, and said, "The history of music is full of descriptive nature painting. The sixth Symphony of Beethoven attempts to convey the picture of running streams, and songs of the birds and winds. In Wagner's 'Ride of the Valkyries' we get the astonishing picture of storm and lightning, winds and thunder. "Music in its finest forms appeals more directly to the emotions because it's rhythm corresponds to our physiological rhythms. The rhythm of the sea is a swaying rhythm."

"Recalled at Sea and Prosperous Voyage" by Mendelssohn was played as a two-piano number by Mrs. Ione Reichelderfer and Miss Gretchen Moeller to illustrate Mrs. Kiger's point that he based many of his compositions on his impressions of the sea. "Fingals Cove Overture" or the "Hebrides" was written by Mendelssohn after a visit to the Hebrides Islands, according to Mrs. Kiger's paper, and the selection was played as a piano solo by Mrs. Martin Cromley, showing the sounds of the rolling sea, and the echoes of sea and wind in his work. Mrs. Kiger spoke of the use of the minor key to convey the loneliness and weirdness of the sea. Following this, the Monday club chorus sang "Over the Rolling Sea," by Greely and "A Song of the Sea" by Stebbins with Mrs. James P. Moffitt as leader and Miss Abbe Mills Clarke as piano accompanist.

"To be Sung on the Water" a poem by Stalberg, became a rhythmic masterpiece when set to music by Schubert, the most poetical of all composers. This lovely number was played at two pianos by Miss Clarke and Mrs. Theodore Huston.

During the business meeting, Mrs. Bishop Given, chairman of the lecture committee of the "Work for Victory" department, announced that the club had cleared $37.25 on the lecture "Why We Fight Again," presented by Dr. Harold Grimm last week in the high school auditorium.

Funk-Miller
Announcement is made of the marriage, November 5, of Miss ed into the U. S. Army and are now on their 14-day furloughs.

Those present were Ted Fausnaugh, Francis Leist, Miss Bernice Dumm and Clyde J. Leist of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Leist and son and Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Wolf and son of Circleville; Mr. and Mrs. Larry Goodman and family of Hooker; Mr. and Mrs. Courtwright and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Courtwright and son, Darrel, of Amanda.

THREE ON RADIO
Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt of the United States, Manuel Avila Camacho of Mexico and Manuel L. Quezon of the Philippines will take part in a three-network broadcast (NBC, MBS, Blue) on Sunday, November 15, in observance of Philippine Commonwealth Day. Also to be heard are Enya Gonzalez, Philippine soprano, and the United States Marine Band.

MELTON BUSY
Next week will be a busy one for James Melton because he will be singing three guest operas with the Chicago Opera Company. He will sing "Lucia di Lammermoor" with Lily Pons on Wednesday, Armistice Day. On Friday he will sing the tenor lead in "Martha," in English, and on Monday he will sing "La Traviata."

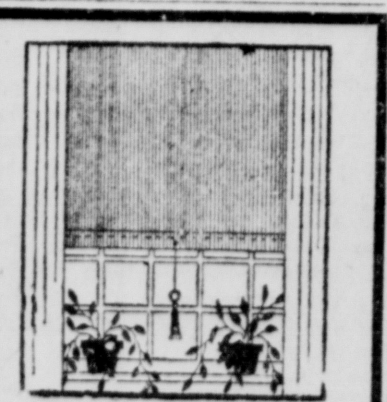

SQUARES IMPORTANT
Square dances are coming back into popularity, according to reports from various parts of the country, especially New England. In fact, Andre Kostelanetz, conductor of "Pause That Refreshes" over CBS Sundays, received so many requests to offer a square dance on one of his programs that he presented a full medley. These included "Irish Washerwoman," "Captain Jinks," "Money Musk," "Little Brown Jug" and "Spanish Cavalier."

PASSES AMMUNITION
Akim Tamiroff auditions as a replacement for the Mad Russian, and Shirley Dinsdale, 15-year-old ventriloquist, introduces Judy Splinters to her first network audience, on Eddie Cantor's "Time to Smile" program Wednesday at 9 p. m., over NBC Musically, the program features "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition," but they will return home Wednesday and will be accompanied by Mrs. John Bennett, who has been a guest for several weeks in the Weldon home.

Mrs. Arnold Reichelderfer of Tarleton was a Monday guest of her mother, Mrs. Margaret Leist, of Walnut street.

Mrs. Lawrence Spencer of Salt Creek township was a Monday shopping visitor in Circleville.

Mrs. Harry Sohn of Pickaway township shopped in Circleville Monday.

• Subject of Discussion

1812 Daughters
Hear Talk By
Mrs. Barrett

SOCIAL CALENDAR

Mrs. Walter V. Barrett of Chillicothe presented an excellent paper on the subject, "Homes, American Gothic," at the Guest Day meeting of Major John Boggs chapter, Daughters of 1812, held Monday at the home of Mrs. Noah G. Spangler of West High street. Mrs. Orion King was co-hostess for the affair which marked the sixth anniversary of the founding of the chapter. Mrs. King was founder and organizing president. Clearly and vividly Mrs. Barrett discussed backgrounds of early life in America sketching scenes both humorous and stern to bring to mind long forgotten experiences in the lives of the guests. Her colorful word pictures of places and pioneers of her home community were cleverly and beautifully expressed in a year cycle.

Mrs. H. O. Pile, chapter president, welcomed the guest group which included several representatives of other organizations, Mrs. James P. Moffitt of East Franklin street, regent of Pickaway Plains chapter, D. A. R.; Mrs. Frank Webb, representative of the Daughters of Union Veterans; Mrs. B. T. Hedges and Mrs. Charles Smith, American Legion Auxiliary; Miss Madge Sullivan of Columbus, the Lucas Sullivan chapter, Daughters of 1812; Mrs. David Pittenger and Mrs. Martin L. Dumble of Columbus, of the Colonel William Ball chapter, Daughters of the American Colonists, and Miss Leola C. Somers of Chillicothe.

Mrs. Pile led the ritualistic opening of the chapter which was concluded with group singing of the Star-Spangled Banner.

Light refreshments were served in the dining room at the close of the program. A large bowl of lovely yellow and white chrysanthemums centered the tea table, attractive in its appointments of silver and crystal. Mrs. A. E. Bernstein of Chillicothe and Mrs. Pile presided.

Monday Club
Mrs. Melvin Kiger read a deeply interesting paper on "Music of the Sea" Monday at the meeting of the Monday club in the Library Trustees' room, Memorial hall. The program was in charge of the Music Division of the club.

Mrs. Kiger said in part, "Music is truly a universal language for, whether it be heard in Germany, England or America, it gives the same affect to its audience. Music and Art are synonymous in this respect. Art is nature in being and music is the voice of the world."

Mrs. Kiger pointed out how the effects of nature have been felt in the works of the romantic composers, Mendelssohn, Schubert and Brahms, and said, "the history of music is full of descriptive nature painting. The sixth Symphony of Beethoven attempts to convey the picture of running streams, and songs of the birds and winds. In Wagner's 'Ride of the Valkyries' we get the astonishing picture of storm and lightning, winds and thunder."

"Music in its finest forms appeals more directly to the emotions because it's rhythmic corresponds to our physiological rhythms. The rhythm of the sea is a swaying rhythm."

"Recalled at Sea and Prosperous Voyage" by Mendelssohn was played as a two-piano number by Mrs. Ione Reichelderfer and Miss Gretchen Moeller to illustrate Mrs. Kiger's point that be based many of his compositions on his impressions of the sea. "Finale of the Sea" was played by Mrs. Kiger and Mrs. Martin Cromley, showing the sounds of the rolling sea, and the echoes of sea and wind in his work.

Mrs. Kiger spoke of the use of the minor key to convey the loneliness and weirdness of the sea. Following this, the Monday club chorus sang "Over the Rolling Sea," by Greely and "A Song of the Sea" by Stebbins with Mrs. James P. Moffitt as leader and Miss Abbe Mills Clarke as piano accompanist.

"To be Sung on the Water" a poem by Stalberg, became a rhythmic masterpiece when set to music by Schubert, the most poetical of all composers. This lovely number was played at two pianos by Miss Clarke and Mrs. Theodore Huston.

During the business meeting, Mrs. Bishop Given, chairman of the lecture committee of the "Work for Victory" department, announced that the club had cleared $37.25 on the lecture "Why we Fight Again", presented by Dr. Harold Grimm last week in the high school auditorium.

ASHBAUGH AND CLATT READY FOR MICHIGAN

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 10.—Russell Ashbaugh, right half, and Corwin Clatt, fullback, who were injured in the Army game, were expected today to be ready for full-time action in the Notre Dame lineup Saturday when Michigan invades South Bend.

ILLINOIS' BEST PASSER RETURNS AFTER INJURY

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 10.—Illinois' hopes for victory over Ohio State rose today with the return of Dick Good, injured passer, giving the Illini three aces in the left halfback post. The other two are Art Duffelmeier and Don Griffin.

ASHVILLE

Both the banks here, Ashville and Citizens will be closed to business all day Wednesday—Armistice Day. The local schools along with the Postoffice will operate as usual. The rural route mail carriers will not be on duty.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. L. Cole, Mr. and Mrs. S. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. M. Ziegler, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Goldenberg, all of Columbus, spent Sunday with the Kaiserman family here. And the Misses Lillian and Alice Kaiserman of Cincinnati spent the week end with their brother and family Lieut. J. J. Kaiserman in Louisville, Ky. The Lieutenant is stationed at Jeffersonville, Indiana.

Miss Ernestine Frost who has operated a beauty parlor here for quite some time, has employment in the Capital City and is vice president of the Columbus chapter of the Hair Dressers association.

Even though corn husking has been slowed down some because of lack of help, it is going along at a rate that could be a lot worse. Ollie Smith told us he is now going strong on a three thousand bushel job and shucks out an average of 50 bushels the day. Hartley O. Peters said just yesterday evening that they had finished cribbing the corn in a 25-acre field which made a yield of 83 bushels the acre.

Don and Mrs. Swoyer who operate a general store at the old home town of Marcy, are the parents of a new daughter, Ruth Ann, born at Grant hospital the 7th inst.

Charles Beery, residing at the Beery homestead east of Marcy for many years, since a youngster, and reported poorly for some time, is now a patient at Grant hospital. For a number of years he has acted as secretary of the Lithopolis F. & A. M. lodge. And too, holds a record almost equal to our County Commissioner Wayne Hoover, as a clerk of public sales.

The local school board will be in session at the school office this evening, transacting routine business and maybe taking some action toward the transfer of funds in accordance with the favorable vote for such transfer by the voters of the school district at the recent election.

William Toole, junior, in full charge of the soldier picture display window, is plenty proud, and just so, of the response made by the homes for the pictures of the sons or relatives who have been called to war service. This display rack is the work of young Toole's own head and hands even down to the most of the lumber required for construction. More than fifty pictures are on display now and more received almost daily.

Legal Notice

IN THE PROBATE COURT, PICKAWAY COUNTY, OHIO
In the Matter of the Estate of Kate L. Strope, deceased.

Notice of Public Sale
In pursuance of the order of the Probate Court of Pickaway County, Ohio, I will offer for sale at public auction at the front door of the Court House in the City of Circleville, Ohio, on the 14th day of December, 1942, at 2:00 P. M., the following described real estate situated in the County of Pickaway, in the State of Ohio and in the Village of Atlanta, to-wit:

"Beginning at a stone in the center of the Locust Grove and Atlanta road and corner to Roy Baker's heirs; thence N 59 1/2° W. 14 1/2-100 poles to a stone; thence S 59 1/2° E. 11 1/2-100 poles to an iron stake in the center of the Locust Grove and Atlanta road; thence with the center of said road S 59 1/2° W. 67-100 poles to the beginning, containing 21-100 of an acre of land more or less and being part of Ann B. West's original survey No. 6226."

Said premises are appraised at $100.00 and must be sold for not less than two-thirds of said appraised value and for cash. $100.00 to be paid on day of sale, and balance of said purchase price when deed is made and delivered.

Administrator of the Estate of Kate L. Strope, Deceased.

County Cage Quintets Get Action This Week

Pickaway county high school basketball teams are starting their annual campaigns although the county league is not being conducted this year. Teams are setting up schedules with schools as near home as possible.

Ashville's varsity swings into action Tuesday evening against its alumni and travels to Walnut Friday night to meet Jud Lanman's lads. The Ashville crew this year, a young and fast one, is coached by Lawrence Fullen.

New Holland dropped its opener Saturday night to Bloomingburg, 39-20, while Perry township was bumped 31-25 by Madison Mills. Ashville looks like one of the toughest contenders in the county this year. The squad from which Coach Fullen is picking his starters includes Jack Hennis, Bill Speakman, Harry Eccard, Russ Berry, Dick Messick, Romaine Miller, Dick Hudson, Arthur Deal, Gene and Harold Tosca, Harry Fry, Charles Counts, Lawrence Nance, Paul Pettibone, Harry Rife and Donald Duvall. Rife performed last year with Washington township.

The Ashville schedule includes: Nov. 13, at Walnut; Nov. 17, at Hamilton township; Nov. 20, at Lancaster St. Mary; Nov. 25, open; Dec. 5, at Pickaway; Dec. 11, Scioto; Dec. 18, open; Dec. 22, open; Dec. 31, at Darby; Jan. 8, open; Jan. 15, Pickaway; Jan. 22.

RAMBLERS RATE NO. 1 POSITION FOR BOWL BID

By Jack Mahon
NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Our grapevine from the west coast which sputters less frequently these days than it has in the past came to life over the week end with the information that Notre Dame is No. 1 on the Rose Bowl committee's invitation list this Fall and if it goes through the rest of its schedule unscathed will get the first bid to the Tournament of Roses game at Pasadena, New Year's Day.

Assuming N. D. does just that—which won't be, by any means, easy—we are in a position to state there is a better than even chance of them breaking tradition and accepting such an offer.

The fighting Irish have not played in the Rose Bowl since '25 when they downed Stanford 27-10. The faculty board of control has been the recipient of "feelers" many times in the years that have passed but have steadfastly refused to accept any bowl bids.

The tremendous success of the team at the box-office undoubtedly enabled them to stick to this policy but we learned from a close contact at the South Bend school, who must remain anonymous, that a couple of factors may influence the board to act favorably on a post-season bid this time.

Decrease in attendance figures and box office receipts due to the war; the possibility that there may not be another college season in '43 and the 18-19 draft which may insure the collapse of the rah rah grid game all add up in favor of collecting as much grid gold as possible, while it is possible.

Our South Bend spy pointed out Notre Dame is by no means as highly endowed as several other big schools in the country and despite past successes at the box-office—and the aforementioned problems of the future—might look very kindly on a $50,000 or $75,000 Bowl check this year!

The Department of Agriculture and state U.S.D.A. War Boards will establish state and county quotas in order to obtain the most effective use of the limited amount of new farm machinery and equipment provided for in War Production Order L-170 issued October 19. As a step in the establishment of quotas, the department has asked dealers, distributors and manufacturers to report inventories of certain new farm machinery and equipment items on hand October 31.

County farm machinery rationing committees will issue rationing certificates under the quota system when established. Until the permanent rationing program takes effect, emergency needs for new machinery and equipment frozen under the latest order will be handled by the county farm machinery rationing committees, the state War Boards, and the special War Board assistant to the secretary.

The order forbids manufacturers and distributors to move any item in Schedule I or II except in the county where the new machinery or equipment was located November 1. No one, including dealers, may move Schedule I items from their location in one county to another. However, the special War Board assistant may, on request, authorize movement of machinery or equipment between counties. Common carriers may complete delivery of new farm machinery or equipment accepted for shipment before November 1.

BALL-HAWKING ILLINI THREAT TO OHIO CREW

Leather-Stealing Made Into Real Virtue; Slusser Replaces Frye

By Rodger Nelson

COLUMBUS, Nov. 10.—Ohio State's ability to hold onto the football may well determine its hopes for a Western Conference championship, and the Buckeyes today inaugurated drills against one of the most notorious ball-hawking teams in the country, Illinois.

It will dolefully be recalled by Buck followers that a bad case of "fumbitis" against Wisconsin blasted three or four potentially scoring drives by Ohio State and it will be recalled, too, that the Illini have won two football games by ball-stealing tactics. Minnesota was toppled from the pinnacle of nationwide acclaim by inspired Illini, 20-13, with Guard Alex Agase scoring two of the Indians' three corners.

Last week against Northwestern, Elmer Engel, an end, snatched the ball from a Wildcat back and scampered 40 yards for the game winning points.

All of this is being taken into consideration as the Buckeyes prepare for the game that will write fints to Western Conference title aspirations for one of the two contending teams.

GEORGE SLUSSER ROBERT FRYE

Illinois at present is tied for the top wrung in the Conference race with Ohio State and Iowa, and Saturday's game will be the league finale for Ray Elliot's Indians, counting them "in" or "out" of the Big Nine race. Illinois has not won a loop championship since 1928 when Bob

ASHBAUGH AND CLATT READY FOR MICHIGAN

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 10—Russell Ashbaugh, right half, and Corwin Clatt, fullback, who were injured in the Army game, were expected today to be ready for full-time action in the Notre Dame lineup Saturday when Michigan invades South Bend.

ILLINOIS' BEST PASSER RETURNS AFTER INJURY

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 10—Illinois' hopes for victory over Ohio State rose today with the return of Dick Goddard, injured passer, giving the Illini three aces in the left halfback post. The other two are Art Duffelmeier and Don Griffin.

ASHVILLE

Both the banks here, Ashville and Citizens will be closed to business all day Wednesday—Armistice Day. The local schools along with the Postoffice will operate as usual. The rural route mail carriers will not be on duty.

Mr. and Mrs. Matlin, Mr. and Mrs. D. Cole, Mr. and Mrs. S. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. M. Ziegler, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Goldenberg, all of Columbus, spent Sunday with the Kaiser family here. And the Misses Lillian and Alice Kaiserman of Cincinnati spent the week end with their brother and family Lieut. J. J. Kaiserman in Louisville, Ky. The Lieutenant is stationed at Jeffersonville, Indiana.

Miss Ernestine Robert who has operated a beauty parlor here for quite some time, has employment in the Capital City and is vice president of the Columbus chapter of the Hair Dressers association.

Even though corn husking has been slowed down some because of lack of help, it is going along at a rate that could be a lot worse. Ollie Smith told us he is now going strong on a three thousand bushel job and shucks out an average of 50 bushels the day. Hartley O. Peters said just yesterday evening that they had finished cribbing the corn in a 25-acre field which made a yield of 83 bushels the acre.

Don and Mrs. Swoyer who operate a general store at the old home town of Marcy, are the parents of a new daughter, Ruth Ann, born at Grant hospital the 7th, inst.

Charles Beery, residing at the Beery homestead east of Marcy for many years, since a youngster, and reported poorly for some time, is now a patient at Grant hospital. For a number of years he has acted as secretary of the Lithopolis F. & A. M. lodge. And too, holds a record almost equal to our County Commissioner Wayne Hoover, as a clerk of public sales.

The local school board will be in session at the school office this evening, transacting routine business and maybe taking some action toward the transfer of funds in accordance with the favorable vote for such transfer by the voters of the school district at the recent election.

William Toole, junior, in full charge of the soldier picture display window, is plenty proud, and justly so, of the response made by the homes for the pictures of the sons or relatives who have been called to war service. This display rack is the work of young Toole's own hand and hands even down to the most of the lumber required for construction. More than fifty pictures are on display now and more received almost daily.

County Cage Quintets Get Action This Week

Pickaway county high school basketball teams are starting their annual campaigns although the county league is not being conducted this year. Teams are setting up schedules with schools as near home as possible.

Ashville's varsity swings into action Tuesday evening against its alumni and travels to Walnut Friday night to meet Jud Lannan's team. The Ashville crew this year, a young and fast one, is coached by Lawrence Fullen.

New Holland dropped its opener Saturday night to Bloomingburg, 39-20, while Perry township was bumped 31-25 by Madison Mills.

Ashville looks like one of the toughest contenders in the county this year. The squad from which Coach Fullen is picking his starters includes Jack Hennis, Bill Speakman, Harry Eppard, Russ Berry, Dick Messick, Romaine Millar, Dick Hudson, Arthur Deal, Gene and Harold Tosca, Harry Fry, Charles Counts, Lawrence Nance, Paul Pettibone, Harry Rife and Donald Duval. Rife performed last year with Washington township.

The Ashville schedule includes: Nov. 13, at Walnut; Nov. 17, at Hamilton township; Nov. 20, at Lancaster St. Mary; Nov. 25, open; Dec. 5, at Pickaway; Dec. 11, Scioto; Dec. 18, open; Dec. 22, open; Dec. 31, at Darby; Jan. 8, open; Jan. 15, Pickaway; Jan. 22, open.

RAMBLERS RATE NO. 1 POSITION FOR BOWL BID

By Jack Mahon
NEW YORK, Nov. 10—Our grapevine from the west coast which sputters less frequently these days than it has in the past came to life over the week end with the information that Notre Dame is No. 1 on the Rose Bowl committee's invitation list this Fall and if it goes through the rest of its schedule unscathed will get the first bid to the Tournament of Roses game at Pasadena, New Year's Day.

Assuming N. D. does just that—which won't be, by any means, easy—we are in a position to state there is a better than even chance of them breaking tradition and accepting such an offer.

The fighting Irish have not played in the Rose Bowl since '25 when they downed Stanford 27-10. The faculty board of control has been the recipient of "feelers" many times in the years that have passed but have steadfastly refused to accept any bowl bids.

The tremendous success of the team at the box-office undoubtedly enabled them to stick to this policy but we learned from a close contact at the South Bend school, who must remain anonymous, that a couple of factors may influence the board to act favorably on a post-season bid this time.

Decrease in attendance figures and box office receipts due to the war; the possibility that there may not be another college season in '43 and the 18-19 draft which may insure the collapse of the rah rah grid game all add up in favor of collecting as much grid gold as possible, while it is possible.

Our South Bend spy pointed out Notre Dame is by no means as highly endowed as several other high schools in the country and despite past successes at the box-office and the aforementioned problems of the future—might look very kindly on a $50,000 or $75,000 Bowl check this year!

CAMILLI'S ROLE UP TO RICKEY; DOLF MAY QUIT

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—The Brooklyn baseball club greeted with stony silence a report from the coast that Dolf Camilli, their star first baseman, wanted his release to manage a Pacific coast baseball club in 1943.

Branch Rickey, new general manager of the Brooklyn Bums, is establishing a new record for disappearance. Branch was not available for the last 48 hours to discuss the matter of Camilli's ultimatum, issued Sunday night, in which Camilli said he was not going back to Brooklyn to play ball in '43.

Camilli, who said he did not intend to quit baseball but would do so unless he was given his release by the Dodgers, gave as his main reason, the expenses involved in maintaining separate homes in California and Flatbush.

A spokesman for the Dodgers said however, the statement was just a type! Camilli preliminary to tip the Brooklyn club off that it would have to come home to get his services next season.

Dolf, undoubtedly one of the most valuable players in the game under present conditions, is good for several more seasons and with five children is draft-free. As several clubs need first sacklers he could probably attract about $75,000 if he's put on the block, something the Dodger directors don't

Leather-Stealing Made Into Real Virtue; Slusser Replaces Frye

By Rodger Nelson

COLUMBUS, Nov. 10—Ohio State's ability to hold onto the football may well determine its hopes for a Western Conference championship, and the Buckeyes today inaugurated drills against one of the most notorious ball-hawking teams in the country, Illinois.

It will dolefully be recalled by Buck followers that a bad case of "fumbitis" against Wisconsin blasted three or four potent scoring drives by Ohio State and it will be recalled, too, that the Illini have won two football games by ball-stealing tactics. Minnesota was toppled from the pinnacle of nationwide acclaim by inspired Illini, 20-13, with Guard Alex Agase scoring two of the Indiana's three counters.

Last week against Northwestern, Elmer Engel, an end, snatched the ball from a Wildcat back and scampered 40 yards for the game winning points.

All of this is being taken into consideration as the Buckeyes prepare for the game that will write fims to Western Conference title aspirations for one of the two contending teams.

Illinois at present is tied for the top wrung in the Conference race with Ohio State and Iowa, and Saturday's game will be the league finale for Ray Elliot's Indians, counting them "in" or "out" of the Big Nine race. Illinois has not won a loop championship since 1928 when Bob Zupke's last great team won the bunting for the second consecutive year.

Slusser Moves Up
Leaving no stone unturned in the all-out preparations for the Illinois game, Coach Paul Brown moved George Slusser, one of Brown's high school products, to right halfback to fill in for Bob Frye, Crestline junior, who is out for the season with a cracked fibula bone suffered in the Pittsburgh contest.

Slusser, it will be recalled, is the youth who transferred from Dartmouth to Ohio State where Brown was appointed head Buckeye mentor, just so he could play college ball under the fellow "who taught him how."

Meanwhile the sudden turn of events of the week end which put this game at the fore of the Western Conference picture has caused a flood of ticket requests that indicates a crowd of some 65,000 for the clash in Cleveland Municipal stadium. The Ohio State ticket office is completely sold out of the $2.50 reserved seat duets, and only $1.10 tickets now remain.

"With a good break in the weather," Director of ticket sales, Henry D. Taylor declared, "we may even surpass the Notre Dame-Navy attendance figure of 65,682."

Yesterday, Ohio State spent the day in the dressing chambers, studying blackboard formations of the Illini style of attack while picking up a couple of new plays the Buckeye mentoring staff has invented for this particular game.

Illinois Punter Good
Assistant Coach Paul Bixler, who scouted Illinois, feels that much of the ball game depends on the kicking toe of Walt Correll, Illinois right halfback. To date, Correll has proven himself to be one of the outstanding kickers in the country, and has saved the Indiana from possible disaster on more than one occasion.

And in all, the game stacks to be one of the most bitterly fought in the long relationship between the two schools, worthy of the anticipated turnout, which will be the largest crowd to see an Ohio State-Illinois game in recent years.

want to do—and Camilli knows it. So it looks like the next move is up to Rickey—if he ever comes out of hiding.

Liquor Control Inspectors Look Over Situation in Circleville

INDICATIONS OF CLEAN-UP ARE SEEN IN TOUR

Court Fines Man Who Bought Beer That Made Boy Of 14 Intoxicated

JUVENILE CASES PROBED

Boys Who Admit Looting Cars, Stealing In Stores Are Released

Indications that an effort is being made to clean up several of Circleville's "spots" with which police have been experiencing difficulty in the last several months were noted Monday afternoon when the State Department of Liquor Control had inspectors looking over the situation in certain parts of the city.

Numerous complaints have been filed with police and by police concerning conditions in some parts of the city, and it is believed that these complaints may bring action by the state office during the next few days.

Hardly a weekend passes that police are not called to beer parlors in some districts to quell fights or other disturbances.

Mayor Ben H. Gordon started to clamp down Monday afternoon when three men arrested during the week end faced him. James Lawrence Toles, 38, of 642 South Scioto street, was fined $25 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail for buying beer for Robert Burgett, 14, from a south end beer parlor. The Burgett youth, arrested a week ago for taking keys from a parked car, was found intoxicated early Sunday police be-told Toles had supplied the beer for him. Young Burgett was turned over to juvenile authorities, but was released.

Forrest Deerfield, Circleville Route 3, and Steve Burgoon, Circleville, were fined $10 and costs each for being drunk and disorderly and jailed. Both have been arrested at other times in the last two weeks, but had been freed on promises of good behavior.

Investigation of several juvenile cases Monday resulted in four boys being given another chance by Juvenile Judge Lemuel B. Weldon. The youths were arrested at 1:30 a. m. Sunday by city police, who declared that all had admitted looting parked automobiles and taking merchandise from several uptown stores. Police Chief W. F. McCrady has a case in city hall filled with various items recovered from the boys.

Two of the teen age youths had been put on probation for previous violations, but they and the other two were lectured and released from court custody.

Investigation of the accidental shooting of Raymond Gale Alkire, 12, of Five Points, is continuing following preliminary hearing Monday before Judge Weldon. Relatives of the Alkire boy indicated that they intend to file charges against parents of Allen Ruse, 13, who held the .22 caliber rifle which wounded the Alkire boy below the knee. The wounded youngster was to be taken to a Columbus hospital Tuesday.

The accident happened when young Alkire and young Ruse jumped a creek, the gun in the latter's hands being accidentally discharged. Sheriff's deputies and juvenile officers had previously investigated reports that the Ruse boy and his brother had been firing a rifle promiscuously through the village. A sack of chicken feed was shot from the hands of a Haller girl recently, authorities were told.

GRAND JURY TO START SESSION ON NOVEMBER 30

September term grand jury of Pickaway county will be called November 30, it was decided Tuesday following a conference be-tween Judge Meeker Terwilliger and Prosecutor George E. Ger-hardt.

At present there are only nine cases to be investigated, foremost of which being the manslaughter charge against Orney Young of near Amanda in the hit-skip death of Thomas Paolucci, 19, Lock-bourne air base civilian employee. Paolucci was killed when hit by Young's car, the Amanda driver admitting after his arrest that he had been drinking and that he thought his car had only bumped another automobile.

Other charges to be studied are of more or less minor nature nearly all persons involved being free on bond.

Later charge prepared for the grand jury is one of driving when intoxicated, the complaint being brought against Robert Eye of South Bloomfield, who was arrested in the uptown area early Sun-day. Bye waived examination be-fore Mayor Ben H. Gordon Monday afternoon and was lodged in jail in default of $200 bond.

Liquor Control Inspectors Look Over Situation in Circleville

INDICATIONS OF CLEAN-UP ARE SEEN IN TOUR

Court Fines Man Who Bought Beer That Made Boy Of 14 Intoxicated

JUVENILE CASES PROBED

Boys Who Admit Looting Cars, Stealing In Stores Are Released

Indications that an effort is being made to clean up several of Circleville's "spots" with which police have been experiencing difficulty in the last several months were noted Monday afternoon when the State Department of Liquor Control had inspectors looking over the situation in certain parts of the city.

Numerous complaints have been filed with police and by police concerning conditions in some parts of the city, and it is believed that these complaints may bring action by the state office during the next few days.

Hardly a weekend passes that police are not called to beer parlors in some districts to quell fights or other disturbances.

Mayor Ben H. Gordon started to clamp down Monday afternoon when three men arrested during the week and faced him, James Lawrence Toles, 38, of 642 South Scioto street, was fined $25 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail for buying beer for Robert Burgett, 14, from a south end beer parlor. The Burgett youth, arrested a week ago for taking keys from a parked car, was found intoxicated early Sunday police be-told Toles had supplied the beer for him. Young Burgett was turned over to juvenile authorities, but was released.

Forrest Deerfield, Circleville Route 3, and Steve Burgoon, Circleville, were fined $10 and costs each for being drunk and disorderly and jailed. Both have been arrested at other times in the last two weeks, but had been freed on promises of good behavior.

Investigation of several juvenile cases Monday resulted in four boys being given another chance by Juvenile Judge Lemuel B. Weldon. The youths were arrested at 1:30 a. m. Sunday by city police, who declared that all had admitted looting parked automobiles and taking merchandise from several uptown stores. Police Chief W. F. McCrady has a case in city hall filled with various items recovered from the boys.

Two of the teen age youths had been put on probation for previous violations, but they and the other two were lectured and released from court custody.

Investigation of the accidental shooting of Raymond Gale Alkire, 12, of Five Points, is continuing following preliminary hearing Monday before Judge Weldon. Relatives of the Alkire boy indicated that they intend to file charges against parents of Allen Ruse, 13, who held the .22 caliber rifle which wounded the Alkire boy below the knee. The wounded youngster was to be taken to a Columbus hospital Tuesday.

The accident happened when young Alkire and young Ruse jumped a creek, the gun in the latter's hands being accidentally discharged.

Sheriff's deputies and juvenile officers had previously investigated reports that the Ruse boy and his brother had been firing a rifle promiscuously through the village. A sack of chicken feed was shot from the hands of a Haller girl recently, authorities were told.

GRAND JURY TO START SESSION ON NOVEMBER 30

September term grand jury of Pickaway county will be called November 30, it was decided Tuesday following a conference between Judge Meeker Terwilliger and Prosecutor George E. Gerhardt.

At present there are only nine cases to be investigated, foremost of which being the manslaughter charge against Orney Young of near Amanda in the hit-skip death of Thomas Paolucci, 19, Lockbourne air base civilian employee. Paolucci was killed when hit by Young's car, the Amanda driver admitting after his arrest that he had been drinking and that he thought his car had only bumped another automobile.

Other charges to be studied are of more or less minor nature nearly all persons involved being free on bond.

Later charge prepared for the grand jury is one of driving when intoxicated, the complaint being brought against Robert Bye of South Bloomfield, who was arrested in the uptown area early Sunday. Bye waived examination before Mayor Ben H. Gordon Monday afternoon and was lodged in jail in default of $200 bond.

OUTSTANDING HOG IS BOUGHT BY TEEGARDIN

C. E. Teegardin and Sons, near Ashville, have just purchased an outstanding Berkshire boar, a son of Calara News Flash, rated as the best breeding boar in the West, out of a full sister to the junior champion sow at the 1940 Iowa State Fair.

Milo Walrab of Mount Vernon, Iowa who sold the boar to the Teegardins, had the highest grade herd west of the Mississippi river in the classification program sponsored by the American Berkshire association this year.

The Teegardin herd was granted the highest rating for Berkshires in Ohio this year. The farm has made sales into nine states in 1942.
